EXPLANATORY PREFACE

The publication now of this compilation may be considered as a memorial to Charles Henry Chandler by his two children, for they are certain that he would well like to have it all easily accessible thus to anyone interested.

Charles H. Chandler was born at New Ipswich, New Hampshire, in 1840, and that was his home until 1868. After attendance at district schools and New Ipswich Appleton Academy, he taught in many smaller or larger districts or village schools there or in neighboring towns, and in the New Ipswich academy, acting indeed as its principal for the 1864 year while the principal was absent in war service.

He then entered Dartmouth College, from which he graduated as class valedictorian in 1868. He was principal of several academies in that region, the last one being St. Johnsbury Academy at St. Johnsbury, Vermont, from the summer of 1869 until early spring of 1871: then he took position as professor of science or mathematics at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, where he worked until the summer of 1881.

Then he changed to Ripon College, Ripon, Wisconsin, where he was professor (and through most of the time also secretary of the faculty) through twenty-five years, until retirement from teaching in 1906. Thereafter he resided again usually at New Ipswich, New Hampshire, until his death in March, 1912. (That occurred unexpectedly from heart failure, without a moment of warning or discomfort, which interupted a pleasant conversation while making a brief call at the residence of a niece.)

In his last few years the New Ipswich Historical Committee having guaranteed the actual cost of printing, had persuaded him to undertake voluntarily the compilation of a complete History of New Ipswich, which became about eight hundred pages. One-fourth of that related fully the history and development of the town, and the remaining three-fourths was intended to give detailed genealogy and personal history of every family that had at least two successive generations of voters resident in New Ipswich.

This had entailed much detailed search by him through the town records of many other New England towns also. But when his death interrupted it was found that he had the compilations nearly complete, and most of them done in typewritten form ready for printing office. Therefore by spending the following summer at New Ipswich his daughter Edith Chandler was able (with assistance on some features by members of the local committee) to finish in final form the remaining sections, and it all went through the press, appearing as of date 1914. It has often been commended as being among the best of such histories published by any New England town.

This explanation shows his experience, accuracy, and efficiency in that type of work.

He had always been enthusiastic in genealogic matters, and before 1900, indeed to some extent long beofre 1890, had in leisure hours begun to collect and put in written form as much as he could readily find and verify of the records of his paternal and maternal ancestors. The earliest of Chandler name proven to be an ancestor was Roger Chandler, who at age about twenty-one years was resident at Concord, Massachusetts, in 1658.

After 1900, by occasional searches through town records and by very much correspondence earlier and later with descendants in New England or scattered through the continent, he attempted to complete a full list, with genealogy and brief biographies, of all the descendants of that Roger Chandler, both those still of the Chandler name and the others, twice as many, that are children of daughters and therefore now have different surnames; and also a little concerning the ancestors of each.

In 1906 he had himself put all this in typewritten form, regularly arranged and like a printed book. And in his last five years he had obtained many further notes or addenda, which he had inserted or interlined.

Thereafter the volume was in the care of his daughter Edith, who made further additions if news of such happened to reach her. This fall she transferred it all to my care, and I have made some few other additions, and have now put the whole in regular order, nearly uniform and ready for printing. But except for these minor additions by her or myself, as here presented, here it is in precisely the form chosen by him, and is verbatim as written by him. Of course we are now unable to have it all finally reviewed and checked against inconsistencies or accidental miscopyings, as he would himself have enjoyed doing. But apparently he had examined almost every small detail to excellent verification.

From a few of the branches he had been unable to obtain any information, or very little; and from some others nothing since about 1895. But in most parts this compilation can properly be considered as complete from the first American beginnings until about the year 1900. For some of the branches it is fairly filled until 1910.

Without long effort or repeated correspondence not feasible for us, his daughter and I have not filled it out for the subsequent years, except for a few small branches. But in case mistakes should be found by any one in any of our limited later additions, or in some possibly unverified original item, we shall be very glad to be notified of any such corrections. Elwyn F. Chandler.

December 1, 1945.

My brother prepared this volume and had nearly completed arrangements for its printing and distribution, but illness and death stopped the work for a time. So I am now arranging for its printing and distribution, where I hope it will be of interest to many. I have not tried to add later data, but I shall be glad to hear of any, or of any corrections.

ABBREVIATIONS AND SYSTEM OF NUMBERING

In the short biographies of individuals through this compilation, for brevity b., m., and d., have regularly been used for born, married, died. Also sometimes when it was definitely known that a person never had any children, this is indicated by s.p. ("sine prole.")

For any one of these, briefly mentioned as one of the children of his parents but for whom as an individual later in the volume there is an individual page or long biography, attention is called thereto and it is denoted as further following by the sign F at righthand margin of page closing the item first mentioning him.

The Chandler family-tree or reference index of a dozen pages at the beginning of this book gives only first names of each because each was a Chandler; except of course the later names of daughters who married, which are shown with the sign #. (Thus, Mary, 2#Heald denotes that Mary, 2 married Heald; Elizabeth, 15# Bryant, that Elizabeth, 15 married Bryant.)

Each Chandler, beginning with Roger as 1 and down to 501 on a final page of the book, was given by the original compiler a personal number so as to assist in cross-consultation from one section to another of this book; such number precedes the name of each at its first mention as one of the children in his father's biography, and heads the page of his own biography in a later part of the volume. That number is at-

Chandler name in the family-tree index. Though a few others of Chandler name in the youngest generation that are listed herein did not happen to be given a personal number because having no long individual biography in later part of book; and of course there are a very great number not at all mentioned herein now because born since 1912.

Similarly the original compiler assigned personal numbers (with other names than Chandler) to about seven hundred and fifty others who, being descendants of daughters, have other surnames. The most numerous set of these happen to be Fairbanks, whose numbers here total 57, but there are (besides the five hundred Chandlers) about 113 different surnames to which he thus assigned sets of personal numbers, and there are individuals from about thirty of these who have paragraph or page-length biographies. The individual paragraph for any one of these is headed at middle of page thus:

13 Fairbanks (40) to specify that this is number 13 of the Fairbanks group, but descended from Chandler number 40.

Thus about twelve hundred and fifty have personal numbers herein. And also an uncounted number (probably a thousand or many more) are included in this compilation though without having been given personal numbers. They are mentioned as children of those who have individual paragraphs; or some of them are ancestors of those whom the family married.

The generation numbers, I., II., III., down to VIII., are placed at the upper lefthand corner of each page; and also head the columns of the Chandler family-tree.

The latest generation any of whose numbers have individual personal biographies written is VIII., the eighth generation.

THE CHANDLERS IN ENGLAND

The name Chandler is one of quite frequent occurrence in English records, and it extends back in time to the early days of English surnames, the Norman "le" being usually prefixed to the name itself in its earlier forms, and the name also varying quite widely. Of the earlier forms "Chanler" is yet sometimes in evidence, and the form "Chaundler" was used very frequently, even until American colonial days, and occasionally it persists unchanged to the present day.

The meaning of the word, together with the prefixed "le" indicates that it was originally a surname of occupation applied to retail dealers in various lines of trade, but in process of time becoming more specialized, and usually forming only a part of a compound title of occupation such as "tallow chandler" or "ship chandler."

We find an early form in a Latin record of "Petitiones in Parliamento" of the time of Edward II., showing that a suit for rent was brought against "Rogerus le Chandler," and in a like record of the later date of Edward III., written at the request (in ancient Norman French) of "Rogier le Chantecler & Richard de Rochyng, Vicontes de Londred & de Midd'," for some easing of the city taxes which it was their duty as "Viscontes" to collect, the term "Visconte" being the name of an office of that date analogous to that of sheriff. A century later, that is in the latter half of the fifteenth century, the same records bring to light one "Thomas Chaundler" as warder of St. Mary Winton College; and the same form is found in seventeenth century records of Hampshire, Gloucestershire, and Middlesex, in which last county the name likewise appears in its present orthography.

Several different Chandler coats-of-arms are found in different parts of the mother country, and there are cases in which such English insignia have been appropriated by American families, despite an entire absence of knowledge concerning their English ancestry, or even of the part of England from which their emigrant ancestor came, such as might give plausibility to a selection of one heraldic device among the different ones borne by English Chandlers.

But, as has been stated above, the origin of the name is evidently such as gives no suggestion of "blue blood," and probably only a small fraction of those who bear it are really descended from ancestors of armorial rank. At all events no attempt is here made to establish for the family which is the subject for present consideration any claim to whatever rank such heraldic decorations may bestow, all attempts to make any connection across the dividing waters and the intervening centuries having as yet given only very uncertain results.

Moreover, no sufficient reason appears for the very frequent assumption that all Chandlers are descendants from a common ancestor bearing the name; but we must rather infer that this surname of occupation became the designation of an indefinite number of families, probably widely separated in habitation.

THE CHANDLERS IN AMERICA

The number of emigrants who have borne this name across the Atlantic is an entirely unknown quantity, nor can a solution of this genealogical problem be considered to be among the possibilities. But it is certain that the name appeared in American records at a very early day, and that other families of that name having no known connection with their predecessors have arrived at varying intervals ever since. The name can be found in Virginian records dated early in the seventeenth century, in Plymouth colony not much later, and in Barbadoes before the close of the century.

The number of Chandler families between which no connection can be traced may reasonably be thought to be not less than a dozen. Of a few of these which are apparently the larger more definite facts are known.

Probably the largest family is that descended from William and Annis Chandler who settled in Roxbury, Mass., in 1637, a history of which, containing the names of about five thousand descendants bearing the family name and also a large number decended from daughters of the family, was published by Dr. George Chandler of Worcester, Mass., in 1883

Another large family is that of George and Jane Chandler who emigrated from Wiltshire, England, in 1687. He died on the voyage and his widow with seven children landed near the present sight of Philadelphia. Twelve hundred of their descendants met in bi-centennial celebration in 1887. A genealogy of this family is in preparation by Gilbert Cope of West Chester, Penn.

A very considerable family is descended from Woodson Chandler who came to Virginia early in the eighteenth century. Of this family no record has been compiled, and it is uncertain to what extent it includes the numerous Chandlers resident in the Southern states.

The family of which Rear-Admiral Ralph Chandler, late of the U.S. Navy, was a member, seems to be of considerable antiquity and of no small number of members widely dispersed, but as far as can be traced their early abiding place was in Northern Vermont or New York. No genealogical search in this family seems to have been made.

Edmund Chandler, a resident of Duxbury, Mass., in 1633, was the founder of a family concerning which historical data are being collected by Elbridge H. Chandler of Kingston, Mass. Most of the Chandlers of that region are of that family, but if Roger Chandler whose name is found in the records of that date was a kinsman of Edmund, which in view of the small number of inhabitants at that early date is certainly probable, no evidence of that relationship is known to exist. As cautious a writer as Justin Winsor says that Roger of Concord was "probably" his son, and so that assumption seems to justify a careful examination of the few facts concerning him.

. ROGER CHANDLER OF DUXBURY

The name Roger Chandler is found not infrequently in the early records of Plymouth Colony, its first appearance being in a tax list dated Jan. 2, 1632, and commencing as follows:

"The psons heere under menconed were rated for publike use by the Govr, Mr. Will Bradford, Capt Myles Standish, Joh: Alden, Joh: Howland, John Dene, Stephen Hopkins, Will Gilson, Sam Fuller, Senior, John Genny, Godbert Godbertson and Jonathan Brewster to be brought in by each pson as they are heere under written, rated in corn as vi s per bushell, at or before the last of November next ensuing to such place as shall be heereafter appointed to receive the same and for default heereof the value is to be doubled, & accordingly levied by the public office for yt end." This statement is followed by ninety names with the tax assessed against each, the highest being that of Isaac Allertson, 3 pounds 11 shillings, and the second that of Edward Winslow, 2 pounds 5 shillings. The tax of Roger Chandler and of each of forty-three others was only 9 shilings, which amount seems to have constituted a poll tax that year; or perhaps it may be inferred that this was a uniform rule for that period, as the same amount is similarly found two years later.

His name is found among "The names of the Freemen of the Incorporacon of Plymoth in New England, An: 1633," and in a similar list of 1646. It appears in a list of the freemen of "Duxburrow" in 1643, 1646, and 1658. It is recorded that on Nov. 2, 1640, "Twenty acrees were graunted to Roger Chaundler, that lye northward from Duxburrow Mill, towards Green's Harbour." But this does not locate his permanent residence, since in February, 1644, "Roger Chaundler of Duxburrow sells 25 acres lying on the Northern side of the ffreshet that runeth into Green's harbour where the way to Sittuate crosseth the same, to ffrancis Godfrey for the consideration of fourty shillings to be payd the one haft in March following and the other half come twelve months." This land seems to have been situated in what is now Marshfield.

No mention of his wife has been found in Plymouth records, and it is probable that no knowledge of that matter or of any facts previous to his arrival in America would have come to light but for the accidental notice taken by H. M. Dexter, D.D., while examining some old records in Leyden, Holland, of the register of the marriage at that place, July 27, 1615, of "Roger Chandler, cloth-worker, from Colchester, and Isabella Tgiltron, from Canterbury. The improbability of such a name for an English girl naturally suggested a Dutch error, which Dr. Dexter attempted to disclose, and on a later visit to Canterbury he took occasion to examine the church records of that place, a search which revealed the baptism at St. Paul's Church, Jan 15, 1586/7, of "Isabell, daughter of James Chilton." When to this is added the statement of Governor Bradford concerning James Chilton who with his wife and daughter Mary was among the passengers on the Mayflower, that "they had another daughter yt was married, came afterward." it gives very reasonable ground for the conclusion that Roger Chandler of Plymouth Colony and Roger Chandler, clothworker from Colchester, were the same person, although of course it fails to furnish entirely conclusive proof that such was the case. This perhaps should not be left without mention of another record at Leyden containing the name of "Roger Chandler of Rochester."

Information concerning his children is very meagre, but that he had three daughters is shown by the record under the date of Oct. 3, 1665, that "One hundred and fifty acrees of land are graunted by the Court vnto the three sisters, the daughters of Roger Chandler, viz. & to each of them fifty acrees lying between the Bay line and the bounds of Taunton, according to the desire of John Bundey." This was the first grant of land lying within the tract that now constitutes the town of Easton, and if it could be exactly located it might perhaps give further trace of the family. But this has not been determined, although the following record dated July 12, 1692, is suggestive. "Ten acres at Cranbery Meadows, North Purchase, on right of the Court grant to the three daughters of Roger Chandler was confirmed to John Leonard of Bridgewater." It is stated in the History of the Descendants of Solomon Leonard, who according to tradition came to America with Roger Chandler, that the maiden name of the wife, Sarah, of his son John was probably Chandler, a statement certainly in harmony with the action of the court, although possibly the record of that action may be the only ground for the probability given in the History. Jacob, another son of Solomon Leonard, is believed to have married Phebe Chandler, but if that is correct he married a second wife when he was only thirty-two years old. An attempt has been made to indentify the third daughter with Marta, the wife of John Bundey whose name appears in the grant, but this is certainly far from conclusive.

One of the sisters, however, appears in another old record which is here quoted. "At a court of Assistants holden the fift day of May in xxijth Yeare of the now raigne of or Souraigne Lord, Charles, by the Grace of God King of England, Scotland, France & Ireland, Defender of the Fayth, &c. Before Willm Bradford, gent. Gou, Edward Winslow, Wilm Collyer, Miles Standish, Tymothy Hatherly, John Browne, & Edmond Freeman, Sen Gentle & Assistants, Vpon hearing of the cause betwixt Roger Chaundler and Kenelme Winslow, for his daughters cloathes, which the said Kenelme detaineth, vpon ptence of some further service with he required of her, whereunto the said Roger utterly refused to consent, it is ordered by the Court that the said Kenelme Winslowe shall deliuer the mayde her cloathes wihout any further delay." It may be remarked in this case that the defendent was a brother of Edward Winslow previously Governor and then on the Court before which the case was tried, and that wife of another brother, John Winslow, was Mary Chilton, sister of Isabell before mentioned as the wife of Roger Chandler.

Of the death of Roger Chandler there is no record, but it may be assumed that it was previous to the grant to his daughters in 1665.

Roger Chandler of Concord First Generation

I.

of Concord, Mass., is assumed to have been the son of Roger Chandler of Duxbury, although an entirely satisfactory basis for this assumption cannot be claimed. Strong presumptive evidence, however, is not lacking. According to Shattuck's History of Concord, Roger Chandler with twenty others formed a party from Plymouth Colony which received a grant of four hundred acres in that town in 1658, at which time he, according his gravestone, was about twenty-one years old. No record or tradition connects him with the family of Edmund Chandler before mentioned, and the name Roger adds no slight weight to the theory under consideration, since an extended examination of records giving the names of thousands of members of American Chandler families has disclosed only two Roger Chandlers in addition to the two here assumed to be father and son. For one of these the origin of the name is entirely evident, since he bore the full name, Roger Moore, of his grandmother's foster father. The remaining Roger Chandler was a direct descendant of Roger of Concord, in memory of whom he was named.

This practical monopoly of the name by what is probably one family cannot fail to suggest a descent from "Rogerus" "Rogier" of the fourteenth century before mentioned. But it must be admitted that this maternal ancestry presents an additional uncertainty, since Isabell (Chilton) Chandler was nearly or quite fifty years of age, if she was living, at the time of the birth of Roger Chandler of Concord; unless his age at death is incorrectly stated on his gravestone, a supposition by no means iprobable since the stone does not seem to have been erected until a considerable time after his death, and a further uncertainty is suggested by being there inscribed as "about 80 years." There are no known indications that Roger of Duxbury had a second wife.

Apparently Roger Chandler of Concord remained a resident in that town during the remainder of his life, although his name is found upon a petition of "the traine band and singell men" of Cambridge in 1664, which may perhaps indicate a temporary residence in that town. But it must be remembered that the original Cambridge was thirty-five miles in length and extended its limits quite to the boundries of Concord, and town lines may not have been closely observed in matters of association among the young men.

Roger Chandler was a mechanic. He is styled a cooper in his will, and his adze was preserved by his descendants until recent years. We learn of his having been employed to build a house for Dolor Davis who came from Barnstable, which was on the road from the road by the Barrett place northward to Carlisle, and was burned not many years ago. The traditions lead to the conclusion that he was one of those men so invaluable in a new settlement, who have mechanical ability applicable to a wide variety of effort. He died at Concord, Jan. 11, 1716/17. His will is given below.

I, Roger Chandler of Concord in the County of Middx within the province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England cooper, Being grown Aged, & weake of Body, but of perfect mind and memory, Thanks be to god therefore, calling to mind the mortalytie of my Body, and knowing that is is appointed all men once to dye, Do make this my last will and testment, That is to say first & principly, I give and recommend my soul into the hands of God that gave it, and for my Body I commit it unto the earth to be buryed at the discression of friends in a decent manner, Nothing doubting but at ye Generall Resurection I shall recieve the same again by Roger Chandler married at Concord, Apr. 25, 1671, Mary Simonds (see footnote) who was probably, but not certainly the daughter of William and Judith (Phippen) Simonds, born at Woburn, Dec. 9, 1647. She dide at Concord, Aug. 29, 1728.

The children of Roger and Mary (Simonds) Chandler probably were all born in Concord, although no record of the date or place of birth of the one mentioned as youngest in the will has been found.

Footnotes

John Hayward and Judith Phippen were married on board the "Planter" from London, upon which they had embarked Mar. 22, 1633, as servants of Nicholas Davis. He died at Woburn Nov. 20, 1642., and she married Jan. 18, 1644, William Simonds. They had twelve children, of whom the third, born Dec. 9, 1647, was Mary. Another daughter was Judith whom we seem to find under Mary Chandler (8).

John Heald was son of John; and Dorcas Buss was daughter of Joseph. In 1879 "be reason of many families sojourning among us, and the straightened condition of our town" Concord elected thirteen "tythingmen", among whom were Roger Chandler, John Heald, and Joseph Buss.

Second Generation

MARY CHANDLER HEALD

daughter of Roger and Mary (Simonds) Chandler, was born at Concord, Jan. 7, 1671/2. She married at Concord, Dec. 18, 1690, John Heald, son of John and Sarah (Dean) Heald, b.Concord, Sept. 19, 1966, d.Concord, Nov. 23, 1721. He seems to have lived in Concord all his life. He was third in a line of at least five John Healds in direct descent, the first of whom came from Berwick-on-the-Tweed, Northumberland county, England, and was admitted freeman in 1641. The second John Heald was probably born in England; he married Sarah Dean.

Mary (Chandler) Heald died in Concord, Aug. 14, 1759.

The children of John and Mary (Chandler) Heald, all born in Concord were:—

HEALD.

3 SAMUEL CHANDLER

son of Roger and Mary (Simonds) Chandler, was born at Concord, March 3, 1673/74, and remained a resident of that town during his entire life, although he was largely engaged in the founding of new towns, and his name appears in connection with several such enterprises so prominently that he has been supposed to have removed his residence. In 1726 he was one of the petitioners for the tract of land lying between Turkey Hill (now Lunenburg) and Rutland; he was a leading proprietor of the grant at "Hassanamisco" made in the same year and incorporated as the town of Grafton in 1735; and he was also one of the proprietors of the township "Narragansett No. 6" laid out in 1735, although he did not live until its incorporation as Templeton in 1762.

All his children were born in Concord, and during the years in which his name appears in connection with the enterprises which have been mentioned he was holding important offices in Concord that made anything more than temporary sojourns in other places impossible. He was Town Treasurer from 1723 to 1727, Selectman during two-thirds of the time between 1718 and 1739, and Representative from Concord from 1729 to 1739 with the exception of two years. He died April 27, 1743.

He married at Concord, Dec. 11, 1695, Dorcas Buss (see footnote), daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth (Jones) Buss, who was born at Concord Jan. 26, 1672/73, and died in that town Jan. 13, 1757.

Footnote

The children of Samuel and Dorcas (Buss) Chandler were:-

- 7. i. Elizabeth, b. Oct. 6, 1696; d. Concord, Oct. 18, 1712.
- 8. ii Mary, b. Sept. 2, 1699; d. before 1773; m. Concord, Oct. 2, 1718, Joseph Dudley.
- 9. iii. Joseph, b. Oct. 11, 1701; d. Concord, Jan. 31, 1746. He is mentioned is his father's will as "void of reason" and special provision is made for maintenance under his mother's care.

Footnote

Joseph Buss was the son of William Buss, who came from the county of Kent, England, before 1639 and settled in Concord. He married as a second wife, in 1674, Dorcas, widow of John Jones who came from Cambridge to Concord about 1650. Joseph, his son by first marriage, married Elizabeth Jones, his wife's daughter by her first marriage.

- iv. Samuel, b. Oct. 9, 1704; d. Nov. 1754; m. about 1729, Dinah, believed to be the daughter of Lot Conant.
- 11. v. John, b. Jan. 11, 1706/7; d. Concord, May 3, 1730.

- 14. viii. James, b. Aug. 28, 1714; d. Concord, Dec. 8, 1792, m. 1st, 1737, Mary Wright (see footnote), daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth Wright, b.Concord, Apr. 9, 1720; d.Concord, May 4, 1746; 2nd, Concord, July 2, 1747, Mary Flagg, daughter of Joseph and Mary (Tompkins) Flagg. b.Concord Jan. 21, 1716/17, d.Concord, May 22, 1753; 3rd, Concord, Apr. 14, 1756, Mary Whittaker, probably daughter of David and Mercy (Hunt) Whittaker, b.Concord, May 16, 1716, d.Concord, Dec. 2, 1791.

Footnotes

The connections between the Chandler, Flagg, and Wright families seem to call for special attention.

Thomas (1) Flagg of Watertown came to America in 1637; his wife was Mary; Eleazar (2) married Deborah (Wright) Barnes, probably daughter of Edward above; Eleazar (3) married Deborah Tompkins; Eleazar (4) married Sarah Chandler (25); Also Joseph (3) son of Eleazar (2) married Mary Tompkins; Mary (4) married James Chandler (14).

II. BROWN

5 ABIGAIL CHANDLER

daughter of Roger and Mary (Simonds) Chandler, was born at Concord, May 31, 1681. She married, Feb. 1699/17000, Eleazar Brown son of Eleazar and Dinah (Spalding) Brown, (footnote) b. Apr. 2, 1676, d. Apr. 3, 1756. She died at Concord, Mar. 29, 1766.

The children of Eleazar and Abigail (Chandler) Brown were born at Concord, except the first who was born at Chelmsford.

Footnotes

Samuel was son of John and Dorcas Jones. See note under Samuel Chandler (3).

Samuel was son of Francis and Elizabeth (Wheeler) Fletcher, and grandson of Robert Fletcher who settled in Concord, 1630. A full history of that family has been published.

Third Generation

DUDLEY

daughter of Samuel and Dorcas (Buss) Chandler, was born at Concord, Dec. 21, 1699. She married at Concord, Oct. 2, 1718, Joseph Dudley, son of Joseph and Abigail (Goble) Dudley, b.Apr. 20, 1697. (footnote). He was a blacksmith in Concord. His will dated in 1745 was proved in 1746, the inventory of the estate amounting to 396 pounds.

His widow (Mary Chandler Dudley) married, Nov. 21, 1752, Judah Clark of Lexington. She died before Jan. 4, 1774, and her husband had died earlier.

The children of Joseph and Mary (Chandler) Dudley were:-

DUDLEY

- 1. i. Joseph, b.July 24, 1719; d.as early as Aug. 17, 1773; m.Concord, Jan. 16, 1740/41, Mary Brown.

- 11. xi. Benjamin, b. Nov. 25, 1741; m. 1765, Mary Stratton of Weston, who died, Sudbury, Jan. 21, 1814.

Footnotes

Francis Dudley, b.about 1640, was at Concord in 1663. He m. Sarah Wheeler, daughter of George and Katherine. Their son Joseph married Abigail Goble, daughter of Thomas and Mary. A full Dudley history has been published.

Jonathan Brooks was son of Hugh and Abigail (Barker) Brooks. Abigail was daughter of John and Judith (Simonds) Barker.

III.

SAMUEL CHANDLER

son of Samuel and Dorcas (Buss) Chandler, was born at Concord, Oct. 19, 1704. He seems to have been an active man in the enterprises of his day, but reliable information concerning his life is exceptionally deficient, and it is made still more uncertain by his name being the same as that of his father. All his children were born in Concord, but other recorded facts concerning his residence in that town are few. He was interested with his father in the "Hassanamisco" grant, and it is possible that he was the Samuel Chandler mentioned in the record of some incidents of that movement which have been ascribed to his father; but as he had hardly attained his majority at the time of the commencement of that enterprise, he could hardly have been the leading proprietor who had so prominent a place in its early records. Still "Samuel Chandler" was one of the Selectmen of Grafton in 1729, 1731, and 1732, and also Moderator five times between 1728 and 1736, at which time Samuel senior was holding one or more of the offices of Treasurer, Selectman, and Representative in Concord, facts which seem to necessitate the belief that Samuel junior, despite his youth, must have been the one holding offices in youthful Grafton.

Both father and son were among the proprietors of "Narragansett No. 6", but neither of them lived to see it incorporated as Templeton.

Neither the place nor the exact date of the death of Samuel Chandler is known, but his will, dated Nov. 16, 1754, was proved Dec. 2 of the same year. The family name of his wife Dinah, who he is said to have married about 1729, is not recorded, but among the property bequeathed to her is "all that shall come from our brother Ezra Conant", which affords ground for the inference that she was Dinah Conant, daughter of Lot and Martha (————) Conant who had removed from Beverly to Concord about 1716. She is recorded as baptized August 20, 1710, and she had a brother Ezra about two years her junior.

Samuel Chandler's estate was inventoried at 72 pounds. The children of Samuel and Dinah (Conant) Chandler were:—

- 15. i. Elizabeth, b. Jan. 1, 1729/30; m. June 16, 1760, Thomas Bryant
- 16. ii. John, b. Dec. 26, 1731; d. Lexington, Nov. 22, 1810; m. Lexington, July 12, 1757, Beulah Merriam.
- 17. iii. Samuel, b. May 29, 1734.
- 18. iv. Jonas. b. Feb. 27, 1736/37.
- v. Nathan. b. July 14, 1739. He enlisted for the French War in Capt. John Clapham's Company in 1760. He died Dec. 6 of the same year and was buried from the house of his brother John in Lexington.
- 20. vi. Daniel, b. Jan. 23, 1741.
- 21. vii. Ebenezer, b. Mar. 21, 1743; d. Concord, Dec. 21, 1752.
- 22. viii. Mary, b. Mar. 2, 1746; d. Hubbardston, Feb. 17, 1831; m.Sept. 8, 1786, William Muzzey. Lived at Hubbardston.
- 23. ix. Ezra, b. Cct. 4, 1749; d. Concord, May 4, 1750.

The above record shows nothing concerning three of the sons of Samuel Chandler except the dates of their births, and descendants of their brother John resident in Lexington have no traditions concerning them and assume that they died young. But they were all mentioned in their father's will, and on June 8, 1757, Daniel Chandler, son of Samuel, aged fifteen, made choice of "James Chandler, Jr.," as his guardian, a choice somewhat difficult to understand, because the only relative having such appleation was his cousin at that time only seventeen years old. (footnote.)

In view of the entire uncertainty concerning the later years of the life of Samuel Chandler's widow, it seems by no means improbable that with her unmarried children she removed to a considerable distance, and that thence there may have sprung a line of the descendants of Roger Chandler as yet unrecognized.

Footnote, later.

Daniel died before May 30, 1765, when the account of his guardian bearing charges for the expenses of his sickness and funeral were allowed. The name of Saml. Chandler is given as a private in Capt. Eleazar Melvin's company starting on "Shirley's Expedition" from Concord May 30, 1754. Was it Samuel (10) or Samuel (17)?

New England Hist. & Gen. Register, 1873, p.281.

III.

FLAGG

12 HULDAH CHANDLER

daughter of Samuel and Dorcas (Buss) Chandler, was born at Concord, July 5, 1709. She married at Concord, Sept. 28, 1731, Eleazar Flagg, son of Eleazar and Deborah (Tompkins) Flagg, and the third of eight Eleazar Flaggs in direct descent, the latest three however having the middle name Fletcher. He was born at Concord, Oct. 25, 1709, and died at Grafton, Aug. 8, 1771. His father was one of the forty original proprietors of "Hassanamisco" and he himself probably settled upon his father's land there before attaining his majority. His substantial farm house, which was probably antedated by an earlier log building, stood as the Flagg homestead for a full century before it was torn down in 1845. He was appointed Deputy Sheriff in 1745. For a time he seems to have been a public inholder. The inventory of his estate amounted to 496 pounds, 19 shillings.

Huldah (Chandler) Flagg died at Grafton, Jan. 27, 1765. The children of Eleazar and Huldah (Chandler) Flagg were:—

FLAGG

- 1. i. Huldah, b. Dec. 14, 1732; d. West Sutton, Jan. 24, 1825. m. 1762, Stephen Waters.
- 2. ii. Eleazar, b. Nov. 12, 1734; d. Grafton, Feb. 19, 1767; m. 1763, Sarah Chandler.
- 3. iii. Simon, b. May 25, 1736; d. May 26, 1736.
- 4. iv. John, b. Aug. 2, 1737; without doubt died young.
- 5. v. Mary, b. Mar. 19, 1740; d. Apr. 1824; m. 1763, Benjamin Goddard.
- 6. vi. Samuel, b. Dec. 5, 1741; d. Grafton, Oct. 17, 1822; m. 1769, Lydia Rockwood.
- 7. vii. Submit. b. Sept. 1744; d. Berlin, Vt., Mar. 14, 1839; m. 1773, Daniel Hayden.

A full history of the descendants of Eleazar and Huldah (Chandler) Flagg has been published, showing 23 descendants having Chandler as a first or middle name, twelve of them being of the line of their son Eleazar whose wife was also a Chandler.

daubhter of Samuel and Dorcas (Buss) Chandler was born at Concord, Dec. 2, 1711. She married at Concord, June 15, 1731, Eleazar Davis of Bedford, son of Eleazar (see footnote) and Eunice (Potter) Davis, b.Mar. 5, 1705/06, d.Sept. 12, 1748.

The children of Eleazar and Rebecca (Chandler) Davis were:-

DAVIS

1. i. Eleazar, b. May 30, 1734; m. 1st, Mary Davis, daughter of Josiah and Elizabeth Davis, who died June 28, 1763, age 22 years 10 months; 2nd, Rebecca Putnam.

- 2. ii. Rebecca, b. Aug. 2, 1736; m. Zachariah Fitch.
- 3. iii. Elizabeth, died young.
- 4. iv. Abigail, b. Oct. 23, 1741; m. Solomon Hartwell.
- 5. v. Sarah, b. Oct. 13, 1743; m. Jonathan Fassett.
- 6. vi. Samuel, died young.

Eleazar was the son of Samuel and Mary (Mead or Medows) Davis, Samuel being the son of Dolor and Margery (Willard) Davis. Dolor came to Barnstable, probably from county Kent, England, as early as 1634, thence to Cambridge and Concord.

III.

son of Samuel and Dorcas (Buss) Chandler, was born at Concord, Aug. 28, 1714, and appears to have passed his life an inhabitant of that town. He had a farm adjoining that of Col. Barrett of Revolutionary memory, upon which the remains of the cellar can still be seen.

He was Selectman for several years, and although becoming too advanced in age for very active military service before the opening of the Revolutionary War, his name is found as that of a private upon a list of men returned under date of May 15, 1775, as having served on guard at Cambridge. Moreover he bore the rank of Ensign, and is so designated in the record of his election, Sept. 26, 1774, as a member of the Committee of Correspondence comprising six leading men of the town. entered efficiently upon the duties of his office may be inferred from a manuscript account of military stores sent to Col. Barrett the next year in which it is stated that James Chandler had charge of five half-barrells of powder. Where he concealed that property, constituting a portion of the stores for which the British were in search on the day of "Concord Fight," is not known; but probably they were not very far distant from the searching party, when they came to Col. Barret's house in the hope of arresting him, and were called from the repast of bread and milk furnished by the colonel's wife by the sound of the guns which were "heard around the world," since that house, closely behind which long lines of muskets lay carefully concealed beneath the sods just being turned by the plow, was only a few score yards from the house of Ensign James Chandler.

He died from small pox, Dec. 8, 1792, and in accordance with the prevailing custom of the time his body was not buried in the public graveyard, but in a small enclosure on his own farm where one or two other victims of the same disease were also laid.

He married three time:—first, in 1737, Mary Wright, daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth Wright, b.Concord, Apr. 9, 1720, d.Concord, May 4, 1746; second, at Concord, July 2, 1747, Mary Flagg, daughter of Joseph and Mary (Tompkins) Flagg, b.Concord, Jan. 21, 1716/17; d.Concord, May 22, 1753; third, at Concord, Apr. 14, 1756, Mary Whittaker, probably daughter of David and Mercy (Hunt) Whittaker, b.Concord, May 16, 1716; d.Concord, Dec. 2, 1791.

The children of James Chandler, two of which were of each of the first two marriages and one of the last,, were all born at Concord.

- 24. i. James, b. Dec. 24, 1740; d. New Ipswich, N. H., May 10, 1824; m.1st, Concord, Jan. 1, 1765, Mary Melvin, daughter of Eleazar and Mary (Stow) Melvin, b. Concord, Apr. 9, 1743; d.New Ipswich, N.H., Mar. 22, 1807; 2nd, about 1808, Delia (Blanchard) Heald, b. about 1760, d.New Ipswich, N.H., Aug. 17, 1845.
- 25. ii. Sarah, b. Dec. 9, 1742; d. Shelburne, Apr. 18, 1833; m. 1st, Concord, Dec. 8, 1763, Eleazar Flagg; 2nd, Grafton, Mar. 31, 1768, Nathanial Goddard.
- 26. iii. Joseph. b. Concord, May 5, 1748; d. Concord, Jan. 19, 1813; m.Lydia Adams.
- 27. iv. Jonathan, b. Feb. 17, 1751; d. Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 28, 1839; m. 1st, Concord, June 8, 1775, Hannah Brooks; 2nd, Mason, N.H., Dec. 6, 1787, Rachel Wilson, daughter of Edward and Lucy (Francis) Wilson.
- 28. v. Mary, b. May 22, 1758; m. Concord, Apr. 16, 1795, George Willington.

The Concord Register gives "Jonathan Chandler, ye son of James Chandler and Mary his wife, was born February 6, 1750."

ELIZABETH CHANDLER, daughter of Samuel and Dinah (Conant) Chandler, was born at Concord, Jan. 1, 1729/30. She married at Lexington, June 16, 1760, Thomas Bryant, son of Thomas and Mary (Fitch) Bryant, who was born at Reading (in 1700?). They lived for several years at Concord, and in that town the following children were born:—

BRYANT.

- 1. i. Nathan, b. Jan. 11, 1761; m. May, 1780, Lucy Hosmer.
- 2. ii Elizabeth, b. July 5, 1763; m. Dec. 14, 1780, Daniel Brown.

son of Samuel and Dinah (Conant) Chandler, was born at Concord, Nov. 26, 1731. At the time of his marriage he was resident of Lincoln, which included a part of the original Concord and had been erected into a town only three years before, a fact which suggests the probability that the branch of the family to which he belonged had its home in that part of Concord. His wife was of a Lexington family, and after his marriage he removed to that town, where he was a farmer. He held a prominent place in the town, being one of the selectmen for ten years including a considerable portion of the Revolutionary period. He was also a member of the Committee of Correspondence 1777—80 and held other town offices. He had a commission as "Cornet of his Majesty's Blue Troop," but adhered to the colonial interests when the Revolutionary struggle arose, and he was a member of Capt. Parker's company on April 19, 1775. It is also recorded "Chandler, John, Lexington, Private, Capt. Caleb Brook's co., Col. Dike's regt., service from Dec. 1776 to Feb. 1777, 3 mos. guarding stores at Boston." He was admitted to the church in 1758. He died Nov. 22, 1810.

He married at Lexington, July 12, 1757, Beulah Merriam, daughter of Joseph (see footnote) and Mary (Brewer) Merriam, who was born Aug. 2, 1730, and died Feb. 19, 1813.

The children of John and Beulah (Merriam) Chandler were all born in Lexington.

- 29. i. John, b. Dec. 31, 1758; d. Lexington, Oct. 19, 1804; m. Jan. 12, 1786, Peggy Mack, b. Salem, about 1766, d. Lexington, Apr. 27, 1853.
- 30. ii. Nathan, b. Feb. 24, 1762, d. Lexington, Mar. 14, 1837; m. Lexington, Oct. 24, 1785, Ruth Tidd, daughter of William and Ruth (Munroe) Tidd, b. Lexington, Jan. 9, 1767, d. Sept. 15, 1846.
- 31. iii. Sarah, b. Feb. 27, 1764; d. Apr. 24, 1854; m. Oct. 25, 1786, Hammon Read.

JAMES CHANDLER

son of James and Mary (Wright) Chandler, was born at Concord, Dec. 24, 1740, and lived there during his youth. But within two or three years after attaining his majority he removed to New Ipswich, N. H., where he purchased land for a farm in the southern part of the town on what has been known as "Page Hill," and he became a prominent citizen, respected and trusted throughout a long life. He was deacon of the church for more than thirty years. Like his father, he was a member of the "Committee of Correspondence, Inspection, and Safety," and was Selectman for several years. The records show that when the town appointed a special committee to give careful consideration to some matter of interest, such as the proposal of amendments to the first draft of the state Constitution, such a committee would be likely to include James Chandler.

He died May 10, 1824, and was laid to rest beside his first wife and youngest child in a little neighborhood graveyard near his farm which now contains graves of members of five generations of his descendants.

He married, first, Jan. 1, 1765, Mary Melvin, daughter of Eleazar (see footnote) and Mary (Stow) Melvin, b. Concord, Apr. 9, 1745, d. Mar. 2, 1807; and second about 1808, Delia (Blanchard) Heald, who was twenty years his junior and survived him until Aug. 17, 1845. She was buried beside her first husband, Col. Thomas Heald, in the old graveyard on "Meetinghouse Hill."

In 1815 James Chandler is assessed for schoolhouse tax in District No. 3, but the names show that it was the S. E. District of 1807, then numbered 4. He married "Delia" Heald about 1808, and "Deliverance" Heald is of that S. E. district in the 1807 list. On the regular tax list, Thos. Heald appears last in 1805; "widow Deliverance" in 1806-07; "widow Delia" in 1908 but not after.

Eleazar Melvin, son of John and Margaret (Shanesberg) Melvin, was a famous fighter against the Indians, being in "Lovewell's Fight 2 and at the reduction of Louisburg.

The children of James Chandler were all of the first marriage, and were born in New Ipswich.

FLAGG GODDARD

daughter of James and Mary (Wright) Chandler, was born at Concord, Dec. 9, 1742. She married, first, at Concord, Dec. 8, 1763, Eleazar Flagg, son of Eleazar and Huldah (Chandler) Flagg, b. Grafton, Nov. 12, 1734, d. at Grafton, Feb. 10, 1767. He was a farmer at Grafton, and the inventory of his estate amounted to 281 pounds, 1 shilling, 11 pence.

Aftter her husband's death, Sarah (Chandler) Flagg married at Grafton, Mar. 31, 1768, Nathaniel Goddard of that town, a brother of Benjamin who married her sister-in-law Mary Flagg. They removed to Conway, and he died Oct. 31, 1815, aged 77. Sarah (Chandler) Goddard died at Shelburne, Apr. 18, 1833.

The children of Eleazar and Sarah (Chandler) Flagg, born in Grafton, were:—

FLAGG

- 8. i. Sarah, b. Nov. 6, 1764; d. Shelpurne, Aug. 6, 1831; m. 1790, Isaac Dole.
- 9. ii. Eleazar, b. Jan. 10, 1767; d. Conway, May 28, 1847; m. 1793, Elizabeth Warren.

Nathaniel and Sarah (Chandler) Goddard had one child:—

GODDARD

1. i. Mary, bapt. Grafton, July 1, 1770; m. Stephen Billings. They removed to Royalton, Ohio.

A full record of the Flagg-Chandler descendants, compiled by Charles Allcott Flagg, was published in 1903 under the title, "The Descendants of Eleazar Flagg and his wife Huldah Chandler, of Grafton, Mass."

son of James and Mary (Flagg) Chandler, was born at Concord, May 5, 1748, and passed his life a resident of that town, where he was held in high esteem, representing it in the General Court, 1799—1808, 1811, and being also one of the selectmen. Shattuck's Concord says that in the time preceding Shay's insurrection "A convention of delegates from a majority of the towns in the county of Middlesex was held in Concord Aug. 23, 1786, 'to consult on matters of public grievance under which people labor.' Concord was represented in the convention by Messers. Isaac Hubbard, Daniel Brown, Jonas Lee, Joseph Chandler, and Samuel Bartlett. To guard them against any rash proceedings the town instructed them 'to oppose every unconstitutional measure that may be proposed by said convention, strictly to adhere to the rules prescribed by the constitution of this commonwealth: in particular to oppose any instructions in favor of paper money being emitted, and that they endeavor to take every measure to encourage industry, frugality and good economy throughout the country."

He was a soldier of the Revolution, serving as Sergeant in Capt. Charles Miles' company of Col. Jonathan Reed's regiment, and the canteen carried by him at Fort Ticonderoga is among the articles on exhibition at the Old South Church of Boston. Probably his farm was in that part of the town which is now included in Lincoln, perhaps it was that of his father-in-law. He was deacon of the Congregational church for twenty years, at the end of which, four years before his death, he resigned the office on account of failing health. He died at Concord, Jan. 19, 1813.

He married Lydia Adams, the youngest daughter of Joseph (see footnote) and Dorothy (Merriam Adams, b. Concord, Aug. 22, 1750, d. Concord, Dec. 10, 1829.

The children of Joseph and Lydia (Adams) Chandler were all born in Concord:—

- 45. i. Lydia, b. Nov. 30, 1774; d. Concord, Dec. 6, 1774.
- 46. ii. Lydia, b. Mar. 24, 1776; d. Concord, Aug. 23, 1778.
- 47. iii. Hannah, b. Dec. 29, 1778; d. Concord, Mar. 10, 1799; m. Concord, Apr. 10, 1798, Isaiah Green.
- 48. iv. Sally, b. Oct. 15, 1789; d. Concord, Dec. 8, 1863; m. Concord, June 19, 1817, John Melvin.

JONATHAN CHANDLER

son of James and Mary (Flagg) Chandler, was born at Concord, Feb. 17, 1751 (or Feb. 6, 1750.) He removed from his native town to Grafton soon after attaining his majority, as his name appears as that of a resident of that town on the muster roll of Capt. Aaron Kimball's company in Col. Artemas Ward's regiment which marched from Grafton on the alarm of Apr. 19, 1775. Finally tradition says that he was in "Concord Fight", but it would seem that he could hardly have been in position to do more than join in the pursuit of the fleeing British. But the record of the publication of his intention of marriage in the adjacent town of Lincoln the preceding January and of his marriage in Concord the following June suggests a special attraction to that region which may have made it possible for him to take a part in the contest at the North Bridge before the arrival of his company from Grafton. The military records show that he remained with his company until its discharge on May 14, but he is credited with only seventeen days service. He is also credited with two short terms of service in Capt. Joseph Warren's company in the regiment under command of Lieut. Col. Wheelock, the first being of five days in August 1777, on occasion of the Bennington alarm, and the second of one month and three days in September and October of the same year, when he is said to have been present at the surrender of Burgoyne. He appears a fourth time for one month and fifteen days in Capt. Reuben Sibley's company of Col. Josiah Whitney's regiment, on service in Rhode Island in 1778. He was wounded during one of these brief periods of service, and the resultant disabling of two fingers remained to hinder his work as a tailor which was one form of his industry.

He removed to Mason, N. H., in 1779, occupying Jedediah Fulton's farm in that town. In 1783 he was admitted to the church there by letter from the church of Grafton, but before long he seems to have adopted views not in accord with prevailing beliefs, and when in 1786 a Baptist church "was imbodied" in Mason, he and his first wife were among the eight original members. His knowledge of the Bible was remarkable, it being said that he could usually give chapter and verse for any text that might be quoted. The year after the formation of the Baptist church one of its members thought that he had a call to preach, in which opinion the church did not concur; and from sympathy with the disappointed brother Jonathan Chandler absented himself from communion and was called to account therefor. The trouble was in some way adjusted, but we may infer it was with only partial satisfaction, since in 1789 he took letters of dismissal to the church in Stoddard, not less than thirty miles distant, although there are no other indications of a change in residence to that place. Tradition gives him, with his brothers, the title of deacon, but does not say where he held that office. If he removed to Stoddard, his residence there was very brief, for at an uncertain date, but before 1793, he went to Windham Co., Vt., where he remained for something like ten years, concerning which neither records nor tradition give very definite information either as to occupation or exact location. A private record names"Mulberry" as the birthplace of one of his children born in 1799, and the records of Marlboro show the transfer by him in 1802 of some real estate to John Chandler, probably his eldest son then twenty-four years old. Probably it was in that year that he removed to Cayuga Co., N. Y., where he made his home for almost a third of the century then beginning, as we may infer, in the southeast part of that county, for some of his children were resident in Sempronius. It is said that he went to the frontier of those days alone, his family remaining behind, and that before they followed his wife had spun and woven cloth sufficient for a complete outfit for the children securing the material by the manufacture and sale of maple sugar.

In 1833 or a little earlier he removed to Michigan, whither his eldest son had gone a few years before, and lived with that son on a farm in the northwest corner of the township of Ann Arbor now or recently occupied by his great-grandson, John C. Mead, where he died Jan. 28, 1839.

He married, first, at Concord, June 8, 1775, Hannah Brooks of Lincoln, whose parentage is uncertain; d. Mason, N. H., June 3, 1787. Second, at Mason, N.H., Dec. 6, 1787, Rachel Wilson, daughter of Edward and Lucy (Francis) Wilson, b. West Cambridge, Feb. 13, 1765. d. Valparaiso, Ind., at the home of her youngest daughter, Oct. 16, 1846. Her brother Samuel Wilson of Troy, N. Y., was a contractor supplying the U. S. army with beef and pork during the war of 1812; he was known as "Uncle Sam", whence that familiar meaning of the letters U. S.

Jonathan Chandler had fifteen children, six of the first and nine of the second marriage, fourteen of whom married.

son of John and Beulah (Merriam) Chandler was born at Lexington, Dec. 31, 1758, and made his home in that town, where he followed the occupations of a farmer and a tanner, except during a few years of his early manhood during which he was a tanner in Salem, in which town he found his wife. He returned to his native town before he was thirty years old. His service in the Revolution commenced with the Battle of Lexington, he being with his father in Capt. Parker's company in that initial contest, and also under the same officer on guard at Cambridge by direction of the Committee of Safety for five days in the early part of May for the purpose of intercepting expected expeditions of the British troops into the surrounding country. Capt. Parker's company was prevented from taking part the next month in the defence of Bunker Hill only by being detailed to guard the river lest the British cross and attack the camp at Cambridge while most of the American forces were absent in Charlestown. John Chandler's name is found on the roll of Capt. John Bridge's company on service in Roxbury for a few days of the following March, and also in Capt. Samuel Farrar's company on duty the next fall between one and two months in the Burgoyne and Ticonderoga campaign.

But his most arduous duties were in the marine service which he entered in 1779 under command of Commodore Tucker. He was on duty on the Southern coast at the time of the capitulation of Charleston in 1780 and was among the prisoners then surrendered to the British. His confinement as prisoner of war was accompanied by the usual sufferings of such condition in those days, and having been exchanged he had no means of return to Massachusetts, and travelled back in a destitute condition, supported by the charity of the intervening country, arriving at home after an absence of one year.

At the close of the war John Chandler entered the militia and rose to the rank of major in 1796. He was selectman for several years at the close of the eighteenth century. He died at Lexington, Oct. 19, 1804.

He married, Jan. 12, 1786, Peggy Mack of Salem, b. about 1766, d. Lexington, Apr. 27, 1853. They were admitted to the church Jan. 9, 1791.

SAMUEL CHANDLER,

son of John and Beulah (Merriam) Chandler, was born at Lexington, Feb. 16, 1766, and was graduated from Harvard College in 1790. He studied theology and was ordained pastor of the Second Church at Kittery, Maine, situated in a part of the town afterward set off as the town of Eliot, where he labored for thirty-seven years until his death. He is said to have been "very eloquent, and a firm friend of Daniel Webster, whom he baptized." He was often called the "farmer minister" and according to a local historian "by encouraging the cultivation of gardens as well as in other ways he did much to improve the people of his charge." He died in Eliot, Aug. 2, 1829.

He married, May 3, 1793, (see footnote) Lydia Spring, daughter of his predecessor in the Eliot pulpit, Rev. Alpheus Spring and his wife Lydia (Frost), b. Jan. 9, 1775; d. Aug. 30, 1851.

JAMES CHANDLER,

son of James and Mary (Melvin) Chandler, was born at New Ipswich, N. H., Jan. 7, 1769. He removed in his early manhood to Connecticut, and lived for fifteen years or more in the towns of Lebanon and Columbia, following the business of a clothier. In the fall of 1809 he went into what was then the wilderness of Susquehanna County, Pa., but did not take his wife and little ones over the long and difficult way until he had prepared a place to receive them. He took up new land and became a farmer, returning next year for his family, and he passed the remaining nearly thirty years of his life in the township of Gibson, thoroughly respected as a consistent Christian; he was a member of the Presbyterian church. He died alone in the woods, while returning home from his son's sugar camp, Mar. 30, 1839.

He married in Lebanon, Conn., Jan. 1, 1799, Huldah Payne, b. Lebanon, Oct. 17, 1774; d. Gibson, Pa., Jan. 30, 1930.

ROGER CHANDLER,

son of James and Mary (Melvin) Chandler, was born in New Ipswich, N. H., Aug. 7, 1770, and passed the larger part of his life in that town. In his early manhood he made a contract to construct a portion of the Middlesex Canal which was to extend from the present site of Lowell through Billerica to Medford, and while engaged in this he first met his wife, a daughter of a farmer of Chelmsford at whose home he was boarding. Returning to his native town he bought a portion of his father's farm and built a house upon it for his own habitation. But he did not devote himself to farming for any considerable portion of his life, engaging in manufactures, being a part owner of the first cotton factory erected in New Hampshire, and also having an interest in a similar undertaking in the neighboring town of Ashburnham, Mass. He was also a general merchant in New Ipswich for a time, and for a few years also in Keene, N.H. The disturbances resulting from the war of 1812, and an undue trust in his business associates, caused heavy losses and he became a poor man. He died at New Ipswich, Dec. 24, 1845.

He married at Chelmsford, Dec. 22, 1795, Lydia Marshall, daughter of Thomas (see footnote) and Lydia (Hunt) Marshall, b. Chelmsford, Dec. 19, 1774, d. Shirley, July 10, 1868.

The children of Roger and Lydia (Marshall) Chandler were:-

- 94. i. James, b. New Ipswich, N. H., May 16, 1796; d. New Ipswich, Jan. 30, 1879; m. 1st, Mansfield, Mass., Nancy White, daughter of David and Nancy (Drake) White, b. Easton, May 1, 1796; d. New Ipswich, Mar. 27, 1853; 2nd, Amherst, N. H., June 27, 1854, Abigail Rhoads, b. Lyndeboro, N. H. Aug. 3, 1804, d. New Ipswich, Sept. 9, 1871; 3rd, Amherst, N. H., Nov. 2, 1872, Mrs. Lucy Nichols, b. about 1800, d. New Ipswich, June 9, 1878. The second and third wives were daughters of Eleazar and Betsey (Bullard) Rhoads.
- 95. ii. Thomas Marshall, b. Chelmsford, Aug. 15, 1798; d. Shirley, Dec. 1, 1851; m. 1822, Anne Cooper, b. England, 1804; d. Charlestown, Aug. 16, 1851.
- 96. iii. John, b. New Ipswich, Nov. 25, 1800; d. Shirley, May 9, 1853; He was a machinist at Waltham and Lowell from the time of his majority until about 1839, when he had a paralytic shock, and thereafter lived with his mother and brother Daniel Lyman in Shirley, doing such light work as his condition permitted. Unmarried.
- 97. iv. Lydia Maria, b. New Ipswich, Dec. 2, 1806; d. Lowell, Sept. 16, 1826; unmarried. She was teacher in the schools of New Ipswich after reaching the age of sixteen.
- 98. v. Seth, b. New Ipswich, Dec. 2, 1806; d. Shirley, Oct. 4, 1889; m. Aug. 19 (or 16), 1831, Arvilla Tenney, daughter of Joseph and Judith (Adams) Tenney, b. New Ipswich, July 18, 1807; d. Shirley, Mar. 22, 1881.

The ancestors of Lydia Marshall were:-

(1) Thomas Marshall of Billerica, 1656; m. Mary Burrage. (2) John, m. Unis Rogers. (3) Thomas, m. Ruth ————. (4) Thomas, m. Lydia Hunt.

He was a machinist in Waltham and Lowell in early life, but entered the Universalist ministry, being ordained at Medway in 1831, October. He was pastor at Oxford until 1834, when he removed to Shirley, where he resided until his death, being pastor of the Unitarian Church in that town until 1879 and pastor emeritus the remaining ten years of his life, extending his connection with the church to a period of fifty-five years. In the words of Dr. Eddy of Melrose who preached his funeral sermon, "Conservative in his theological opinions he had no sympathy with the extreme radicalism with which so many Unitarian churches have become infected, and was deeply grieved at what he regarded pernicious opinions of the Bible and Christ." salary was small, and he also had a farm which he managed with success. He was Town Treasurer for seventeen years, a member of the School Committee for more than twentyfive years, and the author of a History of Shirley.

99. vi. George, b. New Ipswich, May 14, 1810; d. East Acton, Apr. 6, 1891; m. 1st, Lowell, Dec. 9, 1835, Clarissa Elizabeth Wright, b. about 1812, d. Shirley, Nov. 27, 1851; 2nd, Apr. 20, 1852, Susan (Treadwell) Barrett, b. about 1812, d. East

Acton, Aug. 11, 1886.

When about sixteen years old he left his native town and went to Lowell, where his brother James was then at work. There he learned the mason's trade and worked at that industry for some years; and he continued that occasionally when such services were sought, after he became a farmer in Shirley, to which town he removed in 1840 and remained more than twenty years. After selling his farm he finally settled in East Acton, in which village his last years were passed.

Charles, b. New Ipswich, May 14, 1810; d. Shirley, Apr. 100. vii. 12, 1889; m. Nov. 16, 1834, Esther B. Plympton of Newton, b. June 25, 1814, d. Shirley, Sept. 10, 1857.

Daniel Lyman, b. Mason, N. H., June 13, 1814; d. Man-101. viii.

hattan, Kans., May 5, 1892; unmarried.

His youth from the age of twelve to twenty-one was passed in the care of his uncle Isaac Marshall, on his farm at Pelham, N. H. The first few years of his majority were spent on the New Ipswich homestead where he had spent his childhood after a very early age, but which at later period was owned by his brother James. After this he became a farmer in Shirley, his family consisting of his mother and his invalid brother John. Here he paid especial attention to the cultivation of fruit. He represented Shirley in the Massachusetts Legislature in 1851, when his votes aided in the passage of the first prohibitory liquor law of that state. He was chosen selectman in 1853. In 1854 he went to Chicago, Ill., and remained for about a year, but made no permanent home there, probably because his feelings responded to the call for free state settlers in Kansas.

In 1856 he joined a considerable party emigrating thither, necessarily by the northern route through Iowa, as Missouri at that time was practically impassible by Northern emigrants. On arriving at the northern line of Kansas. they asked permission to enter the territory, which was granted by Gov. Geary; but soon after entering they were taken prisoners by a band of soldiers, and after being held several days were addressed by the Governor and released subject to the condition that they should not remain together. Some boxes of arms sent by Gov. Grimes of Iowa in the care of D. L. Chandler to enable free state settlers to defend themselves against "border ruffians" were taken from them.

After being released he with five others proceeded westward until they came to the little town of Ogden in Riley County, which had by no means prospered, and its owners felt the need of Northern energy. They therefore offered one half of the site to the newcomers on condition that they would erect and operate a saw mill and grist mill. The offer was accepted, and this town was the home of Daniel Lyman Chandler during the rest of his life, his longest absence from it being during his service in the army.

Although at the opening of the Civil War he was past military age, he volunteered and served through the war. He enlisted in July, 1861, in Company H, 10th Regiment, Kansas Volunteers. He was Hospital Steward, and in September, 1863, he was transferred to the same position in the 3rd Cherokee Regiment, with which he served during the rest of the war. On account of the frequent lack of surgeons, he was often under the necessity of attending their duties, and on his return home he found a medical practice demanding his attention, as it continued to do, despite his efforts to lay it aside, until the later years of his life. He received a pension on account of a serious hernia caused by lifting and carrying patients when needed assistance could not be obtained.

He was a leading citizen of Ogden throughout his life, and was its Mayor for many years. He was also elected Representative to the Legislature.

MARY CHANDLER,

daughter of James and Mary (Melvin) Chandler, was born at New Ipswich, N. H., May 19, 1772. She married Thomas Kenworthy, a native of England. They lived at Mason, N. H., where their only child was born, and where she died in 1811. Her husband married a second time, at Mason, June 25, 1815, Mrs. Mason Merriam.

The only child of Thomas and Mary (Chandler) Kenworthy was:-

KENWORTHY

1. i. Thomas Chandler, b. Dec. 21, 1810; d. Wheatland, Mich., 1861. He went to Illinois about 1840, or earlier than that, for he graduated from Illinois College at Jacksonville in 1840. Afterward he studied at Lane Theological Seminary. He was never ordained, but he preached for some time and taught for a longer period; he was also a colporteur in Michigan. He was in business at Wheatland and accumulated some property, but married late in his life a young wife who secured his property and left him. He died poor. He was "somewhat eccentric, very pious, and not at all brilliant." For a time he was an adherent to the "Millerite" belief.

V. GIBSON

41 REBECCA CHANDLER,

daughter of James and Mary (Melvin) Chandler, was born at New Ipswich, N. H., July 3, 1779. She married at New Ipswich, May 2, 1804, Stillman Gibson, son of Rev. Stephen and Rebecca (Puffer) Gibson, b. Aug. 22, 1781, d. New Ipswich, Sept. 4, 1864. They lived in Ashby until 1810 or 1812, when they removed to New Ipswich where they spent the rest of their long lives. They lived upon the Chandler farm for twelve years, and then removed to the part of town that has since been known as the "Gibson Village," where they had a large farm for many years. But all his later life was largely devoted to a different occupation. While he was not an educated physician, yet he passed from the treatment of the diseases of domestic animals to those of his fellows, and gained such a reputation, especially in chronic diseases, that patients came in such numbers from distant towns as to cause his name to be placed upon many county guide boards. His widow survived him several years, dying July 2, 1870.

The four older children of Stillman and Rebecca (Chandler) Gibson were born in Ashby, and the five younger in New Ipswich.

viii. Caroline Frances, b. Feb. 2, 1824; m. New Ipswich, Feb. 20, 1845, Frederic Jones, son of John and Lucy (Lane) Jones, b. July 20, 1813; d. New Ipswich, July 6, 1892.

Anne Cornelia, born Sept. 27, 1827; d; Canton, Ill., Apr. 25, ix. 1902; m. first, New Ipswich, Jan 1, 1849, her cousin Jeremiah Chandler, son of John and Anna (Kittredge) Chandler, b. Oct. 2, 1822, d. June 27, 1876; second, Canton, Ill., July 20, 1882, her brother-in-law, Washington Shepley.

LYDIA CHANDLER,

daughter and James and Mary (Melvin) Chandler, was born at New Ipswich, N. H. Nov. 15, 1781. In early life she was a successful school teacher. She was also active in benevolent work, and able to adapt herself to emergencies. She married in 1808 Benjamin Safford, son of Benjamin and Prudence Safford of New Ipswich, b. 1764. He had three daughters by a former marriage. They lived on the Safford homestead farm in New Ipswich until 1834, when they decided to emigrate to Illinois. But on the long journey of those days her husband, Nov. 2, 1834, died suddenly at Roscoe, O., and his family settled at Quincy, Ill., where she lived for ten years, dying Feb. 5, 1844. She was said in her new home to have been "devoted to teaching the poor emigrant children, and caring for the sick and poor."

The children of Benjamin and Lydia (Chandler) Safford, all born in

New Ipswich, were:-

SAFFORD

- 1. Stephen Farrar, b. July 7, 1809; d. Hamilton, Ill., Jan. 7, 1860; m. Peterboro, N. H., May 17, 1836, Louisa Hunt, b. Oct. 11, 1812, d. Oct. 8, 1896.

son of James and Mary (Melvin) Chandler, was born at New Ipswich, Jan. 2, 1784. Immediately after his marriage he removed from his native town to Waldoboro, Me., where he carried on a paper mill. He served in the war of 1812, and was captain in command of a fort at the mouth of a river near Waldoboro. About 1814 he removed to Susquehanna County, Pa., and had a paper mill at Montrose which was destroyed by fire. He next removed to New York, residing successively in Steuben and Cattaraugus Counties, in the latter about thirteen years, during which he was engaged in lumbering and farming in three different towns. A residence of three years in Ellington, Chautauqua County, succeeded, and about the same length of time occupied in farming at Poland, O., from which he was called by the death of his daughter Emily leaving a son whom he returned to Steuben county to care for. But upon the death of the little grandson, he returned to Ellington, and in 1846 bought wild land at Jefferson, near Fort Wayne, Ind., taking with him his youngest son to commence the work of settlement, but leaving his wife in their home at Ellington. While teaching in a neighboring school the first fall, he was attacked by the malaria, and died Nov. 2, 1846.

He married, Jan. 11, 1811, Asenath Wheeler, daughter of Seth Wheeler of New Ipswich, b. Feb. 24, 1787, d. Franklin, Pa., Mar. 29, 1873. She lived at Ellington during many years of her widowhood, and afterwards with some of her sons at different places, during last year with her youngest.

The children of Daniel and Asenath (Wheeler) Chandler, whose various birthplaces were widely separated, were:—

- 116. i. Isaac Monroe, b. Waldoboro, Oct. 12, 1811; d. Hinsdale, N. Y., Jan. 11, 1831.
- 117. ii. Asenath Maria, b. New Ipswich, N. H., Mar. 26, 1813; d. Jan. 29, 1908; m. Hinsdale, N. Y., Apr. 19, 1835, Adnah B. Kinsman.

- 118. iii. Emily Monroe, b. Harford, Pa., May 7, 1815; d. Tyrone, N. Y., Sept. 17, 1840; m. Thomas P. Paulding. She had one son, George Chandler Paulding, b. Jan. 10, 1839, d. Apr. 16, 1843.
- 119. iv. Seth Wheeler, b. Tunkhannock, Pa., June 1, 1817; d. Kennedy, N. Y., Mar. 31, 1871, m. Ellington, N. Y., Mar. 16, 1836, Mary Maria Bush, b. Benton, N. Y., July 11, 1820, d. Prairie du Chien, Wis., Oct. 4, 1871.
- 120. v. Harriet Huldah, b. Wayne, N. Y., Sept. 2, 1819; d. Olean, N. Y., No. 23, 1820.
- 121. vi. Eliza Butman, b. Olean, N. Y., Sept. 22, 1821; d. Great Valley, N. Y., July 1, 1824.
- 122. vii. James Moses, b. Great Valley, N. Y., May 30, 1824; d. Perrydale, Ore., Jan. 7, 1881; married, Perrydale, Ore., May 20, 1863, Nancy Ann (Wilson) Sargeant, b. Piqua, Ohio, July 8, 1827, d. Ballston, Ore., July 5, 1890.
- 123. viii. David Silas, b. Olean, N. Y., June 1, 1826; d. Howard Springs, Tenn., in 1896; m. Ellington, N. Y., Apr. 11, 1861, Julia M. Slater, b. near Norwich, N. Y., Nov. 18, 1829, d. Pomona, Tenn., Feb. 9, 1872.

He was a public school teacher in New York, Canada, and Tennessee, commencing at the age of fourteen. He took a normal course of study at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, when nearly sixty years old. He was engaged in printing, mostly in Buffalo, N. Y., from 1846 to 1861. After his marriage he removed to Pomona, Tenn., and engaged in fruit farming, and after the death of his wife he resided successively at Tullahoma, Tenn., and with his brother Daniel Henry, returning to Pomona, and finally to Howard Springs, Tenn. He was blind in his later years as a result of hardening of the eyeballs.

- 124. ix. Daniel Henry, b. Hinsdale, N. Y., Mar. 25, 1829; m. 1st, Ellington, N. Y., July 3, 1849, Ruth Almira Felt, daughter of John and Naomi (Thompson) Felt, b. Ellington, Nov. 10, 1829, d. Xenia, Ohio, June 5, 1886; 2nd, Ellington, Dec. 29, 1887, Polly Callista Gates, daughter of David and Polly (Hall) Gates, b. Perry, N. Y., Oct. 2, 1822, d. Ellington, Nov. 9, 1891; 3rd, Ellington, Nov. 24, 1892, Sarah A. Hatch, b. July 17, 1829, d. Ellington, May 13, 1896.
- 125. x. Mary Elizabeth, b. Hinsdale, N. Y., May 14, 1830; d. Hinsdale, Oct. 5, 1830.

HANNAH CHANDLER,

daughter of Joseph and Lydia (Adams) Chandler, was born at Concord, Dec. 29, 1778. She married at Concord, Apr. 10, 1798, Isaiah Green. Her brief married life was passed in her native town, where she died Mar. 10, 1799, leaving one child:—

FRENCH

HANNAH CHANDLER,

daughter of Jonathan and Hannah (Brooks) Chandler, was born at Grafton, Aug. 6, 1776. She married Alpheus French, who was a Baptist minister. Very little is known of their lives, but he was the first to preach in Valparaiso, Ind., and was pastor of the first church formed in that place for the first five years of its organization in 1837. She died, probably in Valparaiso, Jan. 8, 1844; and he married her sister Sylvia, who was twenty-five years his junior, and who survived him. He died at Valparaiso, Mar. 8, 1860, and Sylvia in the same city, at the home of her nephew J. R. Draper, Feb. 9, 1869.

The children of Alpheus and Hannah (Chandler) French were five in number:-

FRENCH

- 1. i. Alpheus. He was a farmer near Valparaiso, and he died while yet a young man, leaving two children, Luther and Calvin.
- 2. ii. Betsey, b. 1801; d. Jan. 10, 1889; m. 1st, Edmond Hatch; 2nd, about 1860, ———— Bates.
- 3. iii. Polly, m. McBride, an Illinois farmer.
- 4. iv. Ora. He was living at Valparaiso in 1890, and had four children.
- 5. v. Wealthy. She died unmarried.

JOHN CHANDLER

son of Jonathan and Hannah (Brooks) Chandler, was born at Grafton, Jan. 12, 1778. He was always a farmer. He bought his father's land in Vermont at the time of the removal of the latter to central New York, but in a few years he followed his father to the same county, and lived for fifteen years or more at Sempronius. In 1828 he sold his land in that town and removed to Michigan with three other similar emigrants, the party being on the way no less than ten days, going to Buffalo by private land conveyance, and thence to Detroit on the steamer William Penn, then making her first trip. Probably Sempronius was not sufficiently near to "Clinton's great ditch," (as the recently completed Erie Canal was termed,) to make that method of public transportation seem arvisable. He bought four hundred acres of land situated four miles northwest from Ann Arbor, paying the government price of one dollar and a quarter per acre, and he occupied that farm for nearly twenty years, receiving his father at his home for the last six or eight years of life of the father. (The farm is still, or at least quite recently, occupied by descendants of the Chandler family.)

In 1847 he left the farm, spent one summer with his oldest son Loomis in Ohio, and passed his remining years in Coldwater, Mich., where he died Dec. 25, 1850. He was a consistent Christian and a devoted member of the Baptist church, liberal in its support, but his children were all Presbyterians.

He married, first, Ada Durrin, concerning which marriage no dates are known; second, in 1813, Betsey (Loomis) Chandler, widow of his brother Jonathan, b. Somers, Conn., Aug. 10, 1783, d. Coldwater, Mich., Dec. 17, 1865.

There were no children of the first marriage. The children of John and Betsey (Loomis) Chandler, all born in Sempronius, N. Y., were:—

- 126. i. Loomis, b. May 12, 1814; d. Holly, Mich., July 2, 1896; m. May 1, 1845, Abigail Wright.
- 127. ii. Merritt, b. Aug. 19, 1815; d. Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 11, 1845. He fitted for college, but did not pursue his studies farther. He became a farmer at Ann Arbor. He was connected with the Presbyterian church. Unmarried.
- 128. iii. John, b. Mar. 4, 1817; d. Coldwater, Mich., Sept. 27, 1877; m. first, Oct. 23, 1845, Emily Aurelia Loomis, daughter of Cyrus and Fanny (Root) Loomis of Coldwater, b. June 19, 1816, d. June 24, 1856; second, July 11, 1859, Ann E. Sawyer, daughter of Stephen and Marinda (Hale) Sawyer.
- 129. iv. Betsey, b. Apr. 2, 1820; d. Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 25 (or 5), 1843; m. Apr. 11, 1842, Francis Denison, a merchant of Ann Arbor. s. p.
- 130. v. Lucinda, b. June 14, 1822; d. Dec. 11, 1854 (or 1844); unmarried.
- 131. vii. Amanda, b. Jan. 27, 1825; d. Coldwater, Mich., Mar. 22 (or 28), 1853; unmarried.
- 132. vii. Minerva, b. Jan. 27, 1825; m. July 20, 1862, David H. Davis, a bookseller and stationer of Coldwater, Mich.

51

JONATHAN CHANDLER,

son of Jonathan and Hannah (Brooks) Chandler, was born at Mason, N. H., July 1, 1782. No considerable information concerning him is readily obtainable, as he died in 1812 when about thirty years old, and since the death of all his children traditions as well as records are practically absent. He probably lived at Sempronius, N. Y.

He married, first, Polly Gifford, of whom nothing further is known; second, Betsey Loomis, b. Somers, Conn., Aug. 10, 1783, who after his death married his brother John, and died, Coldwater, Mich., Dec. 16, 1865.

The children of Jonathan Chandler are believed to have been five in number, four of the first marriage and one of the last, although it is somewhat doubtful about two of the following list, as only their names have been mentioned.

- 133. i. Nancy, m. Ann Arbor, Mich., 1836, a widower whose name was Seymour, with whom she lived for a few years at Whitmore Lake, Mich. After his death she married another widower, named Schaff, of the same place. A second widowhood was followed by marriage to a third widower, Frederick Lee of Ann Arbor. She died at Webster, Mich., probably about 1890.
- 134. ii. Electa.

- 135. iii. Lesta. If the report of these two births is not erroneous, it seems that they must have died very young, as the nearest living relatives have never heard of them. But nearly all the records of this family are quite uncertain, hence the absence of further information should not cause this report to be cancelled.
- 136. iv. Wealthy, b. May 12, 1805; d. Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 20, 1830; m. Sempronius, N. Y., Jan. 15, 1824, William Mead. F
- 137. v. Eli, b. Mar. 20, 1808; d. Apr. 12, 1881; m. first, Praxy Hudson, b. Jan. 28, 1811, d. Oct. 6, 1866; second, June, 1868, Clara Gunn.

DANIEL CHANDLER,

son of Jonathan and Hannah (Brooks) Chandler, was born at Mason, N. H., Nov. 13, 1783. Little is known of his life, from causes similar to those of his brother Jonathan, as he died in early middle life, 1820, while his children were small; and nearly all lines for the preservation of history were lost as his widow died before the oldest child reached the age of twelve years.

Probably he went with his father to Cayuga County, N. Y., before his twentieth year, and apparently he spent most of the remainder of his life there. He was a member of the Baptist Church, and is said to have been converted at the age of seven, and to have been an earnest student of the Bible. He is known to have been a teacher, but whether that was his regular occupation is uncertain. He removed from Sempronius to Williamson in Wayne County about 1817, and died at the house of his brother Edward in November of that year, or in 1820.

He married Deborah Parker, who married a second husband named Corey, and died at Marion, N. Y., in 1824.

The children of Daniel and Deborah (Parker) Chandler were:-

- 138. i. Daniel, b. Sempronius, N. Y., June 16, 1812; d. Cario, N. Y., Apr. 23, 1886; m. first, Sylvia Allen, b. Jan. 6, 1806, d. Mar. 21, 1844; second, March, 1856, Eliza Flemings, d. June, 1882.
- 139. ii. Albert, b. Sempronius, N. Y., Sept. 25, 1814; m. Feb. 1838, Eliza F. Abbott, daughter of Hon. Robert Abbott, b. Detroit, Mich., Feb. 7, 1820.
- 140. iii. Mary, b. Sempronius, N. Y., 1816; d. Coldwater, Mich., Feb., 1889; married four times, her first husband being James Allen, and the others bearing successively the names Haynes, Vanderbury, and Ormsby.

NILES

BETSEY WHITMORE CHANDLER,

daughter of Jonathan and Hannah (Brooks) Chandler, was born at Mason, N. H., Jan. 26, 1785. She married Moses B. Niles, and had eight children through all of whom she had descendants. She died in 1832.

The children of Moses B. and Betsey W. (Chandler) Niles were:-

NILES

- 1. i. Chandler.
- 2. ii. Chester, married his cousin Adaline Chandler, daughter of Ebenezer and Lucinda (Niles) Chandler. (Chandler, 154) F
- 3i. iii. Sophia.
- 4. iv. Laura.
- 5. v. Harrison.
- 6. vi. Stephen.
- 7. vii. Moses.
- 8. viii. Betsey.

MARY CHANDLER,

daughter of Jonathan and Hannah (Brooks) Chandler, was born at Mason, N. H., May 26, 1787. She married Gideon Draper, a farmer and an early settler at South Bend, Ind. He was a brother of David Draper, who married his wife's sister Lydia. The name has since been spelled Drapier. She died at South Bend, Aug. 11, 1852.

The children of Gideon and Mary (Chandler) Draper were:-

DRAPER

- 1. i. Ariel. He was a stenographer and reporter, and he started the first newspaper in South Bend, Ind., the St. Joseph Forum. He died at Mishawaka, Ind. He had three children:—William H., a printer and stenographer at Indianapolis, Ind., Charles, a printer at Mishawaka, Ind., and Martha, m. ———— Niles of Mishawaka.
- 2. ii. Hannah, m. Thomas Bulla, a lawyer of South Bend, Ind., who died about 1887. She had five children, all living at South Bend in 1890:—Mary and Minerva, unmarried and living with her, William H., a photographer, Milton, and Thomas, a bookkeeper.
- 3. iii. Mary, m. ——— Hutchins, a lawyer of South Bend, who in 1900 was said to have been dead many years.
- 4. iv. Betsey. She lived, unmarried, on the home farm at South Bend in 1890.
- 5. v. Ebenezer. He was a farmer, and died while yet a young man; unmarried.
- 6. vi. Lydia. She died, unmarried, at South Bend, about 1886.

JOSEPH CHANDLER,

son of Jonathan and Rachel (Wilson) Chandler, was born at Mason, N. H., Oct. 14, 1788. He went with his parents from Vermont to Cayuga County, N. Y., where he seems to have remained until 1833, when he removed from Sempronius in that county to Huron County, Ohio. But, (unlike his older brother John in his removal to the Michigan frontier) he availed himself of the Erie Canal for transportation to Buffalo, where he could take a Lake Erie steamer as far as Huron, Erie County, leaving him less than forty miles of "cross country" travel before arriving at his destination in Greenfield, Huron County, where he seems to have lived for nearly all the remaining twenty years of his life. Although some ten years later he was at or near South Bend, Ind., for a time, and perhaps remained there until his last removal, when more than sixty years old, to the extreme southwest corner of Michigan, where he lived only about a year, and died of consumption at New Buffalo, Dec. 13, 1853.

He was a day laborer on farms, and was generally known as "Uncle Jo." He suffered from deafness, which however, did not attack him so early in life as to incapacitate him from three months service in the army in 1812.

He married at Sempronius, N. Y., Apr. 4, 1814, Nancy (see footnote) Phillips, b. in Vermont, Aug. 10, 1800, d. Cedar Creek, Mich., Jan. 27, 1873. She was a local "Thompsonian" doctress, and was known as "Aunt Nancy."

The nine older children of Joseph and Nancy (Phillips) Chandler were born at Sempronium, N. Y., and the three younger at Greenfield, Ohio.

141. i. Enos Phillips, b. Jan. 8, 1815; d. Cedar Creek, Mich., July 28, 1887; m. June 7, 1832, Sarah Van Tyne Robinson, daughter of an Irish father and a Holland Dutch mother, b. Cayuga County, N. Y., Nov. 7, 1814, d. June 26, 1872.

- 142. ii. Rachel, b. Dec. 20, 1816; d. June 26, 1817.
- 143. iii. Polly, b. Dec. 20, 1816; d. June 27, 1817.
- 144. iv. Joseph Newell, b. July 15, 1818; d. Cedar Creek, Mich., Sept. 1, 1896; m. Huron Co., Ohio, Jan. 6, 1840, Mary Ann Gesler, of Dutch parentage, b. Jefferson County, Ohio, Mar. 14, 1818, d. Cedar Creek, Mich., May 9, 1888.
- 145. v. Mary Ann, b. Nov. 18, 1821; m. Huron County, Ohio, Nov. 18, 1838, John W. Barker.

STEPHEN PAYNE CHANDLER

son of James and Huldah (Payne) Chandler, was born at Columbia, Conn., Jan. (or June) 12, 1804. He was brought to Gibson, Pa., when a small boy, and succeeded to his father's farm in that town, which was in a region known as "Kentucky" originally supposed to be in the town of Harford, but placed by a more correct survey in Gibson. The "Kentucky-ville" postoffice of those days, of which he was postmaster, was in his house distant but a few rods from the one occupied by his father. He was a man of local prominence, holding various town offices. Somewhat late in life he united with the Methodist church. He also lived for a time upon a farm in Nicholson, in the adjacent Wyoming County, where his first wife died. He himself died in Susquehanna County, so long the family home, in October, 1885.

He married twice: first, in Brooklyn, Pa., Nov. 30, 1834, Sarah Caroline Packer, who died about 1867; second, about 1870, Mrs. Mary Stevens.

Stephen Payne and Sarah Caroline (Packer) Chandler had six children, all born probably at Gibson, but information is scanty. The following is known.

208 i. Eveline H., b. 1835; m. Horace E. Bennett.

209 ii. James Adelbert, b. 1837; m. about 1868, Rachel Jones. One child, Clara, was born about 1869.

JAMES CHANDLER

son of Roger and Lydia (Marshall) Chandler, was born at New Ipswich, N.H., May 16, 1796, and learned his trade as a machinist in that town. Upon attaining his majority he went to Waltham, and was in the employ of the same manufacturing establishment for more than twenty years, at Waltham until 1823, when the enterprise resulting in the founding of Lowell was undertaken and he was one of the detail of workmen removing to that new field; the date was so early that for the first few months no home could be found for his family nearer than the neighboring village of Chelmsford. He remained at Lowell for fifteen years, although he removed his family to the paternal farm in New Ipswich, N.H., several years before removing thither permanently himself, as he did when a little more than forty years of age.

He represented Lowell in the legislature for three years, and was elected to a similar position the same number of times by New Ipswich after his return to his native town, where he spent the last forty years of his life. But in 1850 he put the farm in the hands of his eldest son, and removed to Smith Village, a half mile distant, where he was occupied by his duties as Selectman and in other town offices, as president of the New Ipswich Bank, and in the settlement of estates. His strict honesty and business reliability were proverbial. He died Jan. 30, 1879.

He married three times, the second and third wives having been friends of his youth: first, Nancy White of Mansfield, daughter of David and Nancy (Drake) White, b.Easton, May 1, 1796; d.New Ipswich, N.H.,

Mar. 27, 1853; second, June 27, 1854, Abigail (Rhoads) Newhall, b.Lyndeboro, N.H., Aug. 3, 1804, d. New Ipswich, N.H., Sept. 9, 1871; third, Nov. 1872, Lucy (Rhoads) Nichols, b.Apr. 19, 1801, d.New Ipswich, N.H., June 9, 1878, m.(1)Nov. 18, 1834, Joshua Horne of Boston, b. about 1802, d.Aug. 1, 1850; m.(2)Lester H. Nichols of Amherst The second and third wives were daughters of Eleazar and Betsey (Bullard) Rhodes.

The children of James and Nancy (White) Chandler were:-

- 218. i. Nancy, b. Waltham, July 18, 1821; d. New Ipswich, N. H., Nov. 27, 1911. She passed a long life in helpfulness to others. She was a district school teacher until the failing health of her stepmother called her from her chosen employment to home duties, and her life thereafter was largely devoted, as long as her strength allowed, to the needs of relatives and others in sickness or difficulty.
- 219. ii. James Lyman. b. Waltham, Feb. 8, 1823; d. New Ipswich, N.H., Mar. 21, 1904; m.first, Ashby, Mar. 28, 1848, Clarissa Merriam Kendall, daughter of Oliver and Sally (Whitney) Kendall, b.Ashby, Mar., 1827; d.New Ipswich, N.H., Oct. 26, 1854; second, Shirley, July 5, 1855, Ann Elizabeth Wheeler, daughter of Levi and Elizabeth T. (Stone) Wheeler, b.Ashby, June 17, 1832; d.New Ipswich, N.H., Feb. 16, 1907.
- 220. iii. George Willard, b. Lowell, July 29, 1825; d. Manhattan, Kans.,; m.first, Jaffery, N.H., June 5, 1847, Martha Towne, daughter of John Towne, b.Jaffrey, N.H., Nov. 29, 1821; d.New Ipswich, N.H., May 21, 1848; second, Roxbury, N.H., Aug. 12, 1849, Hannah Chaplin Towne, daughter of Cornelious and Mary (Knowlton) Towne, b.Dublin, N.H., Oct. 3, 1831, d. Lowell, Dec. 25, 1900.
- 221. iv. Lewis Edward, b. Lowell, Mar. 28, 1830; d. New Ipswich, N.H., Oct. 2, 1838.
- 222. v. Marshall Warren, b. Lowell, Dec. 15, 1831; m. Bellows Falls, Vt., Sept. 7, 1854, Elizabeth Sterne Campbell, daughter of Clark B. and Harriet (Mead) Campbell, b.Putney, Vt., Oct. 10, 1834, d. Aug. 24, 1910. He died, New Rochelle, N. Y., Jan. 19, 1912.
- vi. Charles Henry, b. New Ipswich, N. H., Oct. 25, 1840; d.Leominster, Mass., Mar. 29, 1912. He married Fitch burg, Aug. 17, 1868, Eliza Francena Dwinnell, daughter of Hiram and Charlotte Adelia (Willard) Dwinnell, b.Ashburnham, Jan. 15, 1844, d.Ripon, Wis., Oct. 28, 1894.

VI.

95 THOMAS MARSHALL CHANDLER

son of Roger and Lydia (Marshall) Chandler, was born at Chelmsford, Aug. 15, 1798. He was a machinist, working successively at Lowell, New Ipswich, N.H., Somersworth, N.H., Watertown, and finally for many years in the Navy Yard at Charlestown until the time of his death, which came suddenly, probably from heart disease, at Shirley while he was on the way to the railroad station to return home. He united with the Episcopalian Church late in his life. He died Dec. 1, 1851.

The children of Thomas Marshall and Anne (Cooper) Chandler were:—

224. i. Mary Jane, b. New Ipswich, N. H., June 4, 1826; d. Boston, Nov. 2, 1890; m.Charlestown, Nov. 13, 1854, George N. Fisher, a milk dealer of Charlestown, b.1813. He had three children by a previous marriage.

She was a teacher in Charlestown and Boston through the years before her marriage. She died in hospital after trepanning operation of the relief of an otherwise hopeless brain difficulty due to cause insanity. s.p.

- 225. ii. Sarah Maria, b. Watertown, Dec. 1, 1829. She was for many years a teacher in Boston and Charlestown, beginning when sixteen years old and continuing for forty-five years, (except two years, 1854-56, teaching in Mt. Salus Academy at Clinton, Miss.). A large part of her work was in the Warren School. After ceasing to teach she lived several years at Ayer, and then in 1903 at Worcester.

STEPHEN FARRAR SAFFORD,

son of Benjamin and Lydia (Chandler) Safford, was born at New Ipswich, N. H., July 7, 1809. His early years were passed as a farmer in summer and a teacher in winter. He removed in 1832 to Quincy, Ill., where he had bought a farm, and he taught for two years, after which he built a house upon his farm and lived there until 1854, when he removed to Hamilton, Ill., where he died Jan. 7, 1860. He was one of the earliest abolitionists, and his daughter Abby writes "I have heard him tell of attending an anti-slavery meeting in one of the churches of Quincy during the winter of 1836-7, taking his gun with him, as a mob of Missourians had come over and threatened to break up the meeting. Mother remained at home with the hatchet as her weapon of defence, should the mob attempt to force the houses of the abolitionists during the absence of their owners." He had a station on the "underground railroad," and fugitives were concealed by him and then taken under conduct of students from "Mission Institute," perhaps concealed in a load of hay, to the next station at Deacon Pratt's at Mendon.

He married at Peterboro, N. H., May 17, 1836, Louisa Hunt, b. at Peterboro, Oct. 11, 1812, d. at Sioux City, Iowa, Oct. 8, 1896, after three

He was graduated from Western Reserve College in 1840, was ordained to the ministry of the Presbyterian Church in 1842, and devoted himself to that calling for forty-seven years until failing health compelled him to retire from stated service. He held four pastorates, of seven, nine, nine, and twenty-one years, successively at Edinburg, O., Ellworth, O., Palmer, Mich., and White Lake, Mich., and closed his life with seven well-earned years of rest at Holly, Mich. His loyal friends of his long pastorate at White Lake believe his resignation to have been hastened by the conduct of a few Prohibitionist parishioners who censured his continued adherence to the Republican party. In his early life he was about to unite with the Baptist church in accordance with the prevailing belief of his family, but he finally adopted the Presbyterian faith, and in that belief he was followed by his brothers and sisters. He died at Holly, Mich., July 2, 1896.

He married, May 1, 1845, Abigail Wright.

The children of Loomis and Abigail (Wright) Chandler were:-

- 269. i. Alfred Loomis, b. Edinburg, O., Aug. 16, 1846; d. Edinburg, O., Aug. 27, 1847.
- 270. ii. Edward Loomis, b. Edinburg, C., Dec. 18, 1847; d. Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 3, 1894; m. Dec. 3, 1885, Rebecca Jorgenson. No children survived him. He went to California about 1874, and followed the profession of architect eight years in San Francisco and twelve years in Los Angeles, winning good success. His death was caused by apoplexy.
- 271. iii. Clement Long, b. Edinburg, O., Mar. 29, 1849; d. Richmond, Mich., Nov. 20, 1892; m. May 9, 1877, Eugenia Davis. He fitted for his profession at the Medical School of the University of Michigan, and practiced at Richmond, Mich. Like his brother Edward, he died of apoplexy.
- 272. iv. Herman Francke, b. Ellsworth, O., Sept. 6, 1852; m. Nov. 1, 1877, Lucy (Wetmore) Hinde. He was a music dealer in Chicago. He was connected with the Episcopal Church.

JOHN CHANDLER,

son of John and Betsey (Loomis) Chandler, was born at Sempronius, N. Y., Mar. 4, 1817. He studied at Western Reserve College but did not complete the course. He excelled in mathematics and in singing, and he entered upon the pursuit of teaching the latter subject. After his marriage he removed to Otsego, Mich., and thence to Coldwater in the same state, where he taught for several years and then became a hardware merchant. He was one of the original organizers of the Republican party in Coldwater, and was postmaster there during the first administration of Grant. He was a Presbyterian elder, and was a pillar of the church for counsel and for devotional meetings, being especially noted for his memory and aptitude in the use of the Scriptures. His life-size picture hangs in the vestibule of the church. He died Sept. 27, 1877.

He married, first, Oct. 23, 1845, Emily Aurelia Loomis, daughter of Cyrus and Fanny (Root) Loomis of Coldwater, b. June 19, 1816, d. Feb. 25, 1856; second, July 11, 1859, Ann E. Sawyer, daughter of Stephen and Marinda (Hale) Sawyer, of Coldwater, b. 1830.

The children of John Chandler, five of the first marriage and one of the second, all except the two eldest born at Coldwater, were:-

- 276. Caroline Lucinda, b. Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 16, 1846; d. Coldwater, Apr. 5, 1852.
- 277. Arthur Loomis, b. Otsego, Mich., Nov. 7, 1848; d. Coldwater, ii. May 26, 1870.
- 278. iii. Charles Day, b. Aug. 5, 1851; d. Coldwater, Sept. 1852.
- Anna Minerva, b. June 5, 1853; d. Escanaba, Mich., Apr. 19, 279. iv. 1904. She was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1874, being a member of the first class in which women entered as freshmen. She afterward followed the profession of teacher during her entire life; at first for a year or two at Saginaw, Mich., then about nine years in the Ottawa, Ill., High School, a year or two in Washington, D. C., and during the rest of her life in the Northern Peninsula of Michigan, fifteen years at Marquette, the first three of which she was principal of the City High School and afterward City Superintendent; and after a year of rest she finished by nearly three years of service in the Escanaba High School.

280. Fannie Emily, b. Jan. 17, 1856; d. Coldwater, July 10, 1856.

Everett Sawyer, b. June 5, 1861; m. Macon, Mich., June 1, 281. vi. 1886, Ella Day, daughter of John F. and Lois E. (Edsall) Day, b. Mansfield, O., Jan. 10, 1859.

VI. DAVIS

> 132 MINERVA CHANDLER,

daughter of John and Betsey (Loomis) Chandler, was born at Sempronius, N. Y., Jan. 27, 1825. He parents removed to Michigan when she was but three years old, and her home afterward was in that state. She taught for many years in Coldwater, Mich., but July 29, 1862, she married David H. Davis, b. July 27, 1817, who had for twenty years been teacher in the High School of that city, but after his marriage became a bookseller and stationer there. They were both prominent in the Presbyterian Church.

The children of David H. and Minerva (Chandler) Davis were:—

son of Daniel and Deborah (Parker) Chandler, was born at Sempronius, N. Y., June 16, 1812. His life work seems to have been done in Greene County N. Y., but details are few. He was superintendent of a brickyard in Coxsackie for twenty-five year, and a bee-raiser in Cairo afterwards. He and his first wife were members of the Christian Church in Freehold. He died at Cairo, Apr. 23, 1886 (or 1884?).

He married, first, in 1835, Sylvia Allen, b. Jan. 6, 1806, d. Mar. 21, 1844; second, March, 1856, Eliza (Flemings) Horton, widow of John Horton of Freehold, d. June, 1882.

The children of Daniel and Sylvia (Allen) Chandler were:—

291. i. Mary, b. Apr. 25, 1837; m. Jan. 26, 1866, Denis Anson, a liveryman of Freehold and Greenville, N. Y., who died about 1900. They had no children.

292. ii. Albert, b. in 1840; d. in 1841.

293. iii. Loretty, b. Feb. 23, 1844; m. Mar. 1879, Peter Hood, son of Nelson Hood of Freehold. They lived at Cairo on her father's homestead. They had two daughters; (1) Amanda Ann, b. Nov. 3, 1880, d. Jan. 24, 1898; (2) Bertha Nora, b. Feb. 23, 1883.

ALBERT CHANDLER,

son of Daniel and Deborah (Parker) Chandler, was born at Sempronius, N. Y., Sept. 23, 1814. He was left an orphan at an early age, and passed his boyhood in Wayne County, N. Y., where he learned the printer's trade, with which as a means of livelihood he went to Michigan; opening an office in St. Joseph County, he published the Michigan Statesman. In 1836 he removed to Kalamazoo, and started the Kalamazoo Gazette. This was followed by a short stay in Constantine, but his next removal brought him to a permanent home and long life as a leading citizen of Coldwater. He started and conducted for seven years the Coldwater Sentinel, which was the first newspaper published in Branch County, and whose first issue was in mourning for the death of President Harrison. Later heentered into mercantile enterprises, first in the tin and sheet-iron business and later in general hardware. A still later activity was with his eldest son, under the firm name of A. Chandler & Son, in the wholesale saddlery and horse clothing business.

He was Recording Clerk of the first Michigan House of Representatives, and was twice re-elected. He was the first mayor of Coldwater, to which office he was twice re-elected, and he held many other city offices. His political affiliations were with the Democratic party, but his scrupulous adherence to his views of political propriety cost him the party nomination for State Senator when the Democratic nomination was equivalent to an election; for he was delegate to the nominating convention at a time when Branch County could have the nomination if it would cast a solid vote and when he was the choice of the other delegates; but, as he would not vote for himself, the nomination fell to some other citizen of the county. He has been a Methodist class-leader, and Sunday School superintendent. Also a Knight Templar.

He married, Feb. 1838, Eliza F. Abbott, daughter of Hon. Robert Abbott, the first Auditor General of Michigan, b. Detroit, Mich., Feb. 7, 1820.

Albert and Eliza F. (Abbott) Chandler had nine children all born at Coldwater except the eldest, who was born at Detroit, Mich. (They adopted two others also.)

son of Joseph and Nancy (Phillips) Chandler, was born at Sempronius, N. Y., July 15, 1818. He went with his parents to Huron County, Ohio, in 1833, and remained there until 1852, working at farming by the month or year until his marriage at the age of twenty-two, after which he farmed upon shares until his removal "across country" to Michigan. Arriving at Cedar Creek, Barry County, Mich., he traded his horse and harness for eighty acres of land which formed a part of the farm upon which he passed the remaining years of his life, and where he died Sept. 1, 1896.

He married, Jan 6, 1840, Mary Ann Gesler, b. Jefferson County, O., of Dutch descent, who died at Cedar Creek, May 9, 1888, after suffering fourteen months from cancer in throat.

The children of J. Newell and Mary A. (Gesler) Chandler all were daughter of Joseph and Nancy (Phillips) Chandler, was born at Sempronius, N. Y., June 28, 1825. He life was an adventurous one. She married, first, at South Bend, Ind., Jan. 9, 1843, (or Dec. 9), Samuel M. Anderson, b. Feb. 19, 1812, who was a farmer at that place, and they lived quietly in the same county for five years. But her husband always hoped to improve his condition by a change of location, and at that time commenced a series of removals such that for a period of twenty-seven years she saw none of her relatives except her husband and her children.

Their first home after leaving Indiana was at New Buffalo, Mich., where they remained until 1855, when they sought newer land in Minnesota, and passed two years at Spring Valley, and an equal time near Albert Lea Lake. The westward journey was then resumed in a wagon carrying a boat for crossing streams, and after a brief stop at Emporia, Kans., they reached the frontier in Butler County. But in 1860 they were obliged to flee from the Indians. They dwelt a year in Wright County, Mo., and for another year in Lawrence County, Ark.; and then the threatened conscription for the rebel army caused a return to Kansas, where he enlisted in Eleventh Regiment, Kansas V. C. He was wounded at Prairie Grove, and after eleven months in hospital was discharged, Nov. 1863. They lived successively at Fort Scott and Emporia, and their home in the latter place was burned in 1864, when their youngest son was but four days old. Mrs. Anderson had kept a journal during her years of travel, which was destroyed at that time. They next went upon the "neutral ground," and then in the spring of 1866 to Newton County, Mo., where he died Aug. 18, 1866, and she remained for fourteen years.

She married, Apr. 4, 1870, James M. Eads, b. Apr. 10, 1826, d. Feb. 10, 1876. In 1880 she returned to Michigan, her youngest son accompanying her, but her other children remaining in Missouri. She married, Nov. 17, 1881, Nathaniel Phillips, a playmate of her childhood, (b. June 24, 1820. He was cousin of Rosella Chandler, being son of Ansel and grandson of Enos Phillips; listed here as V., 55, and 60.) Her later years were spent in Hastings, Mich., where she died, March 18, 1899.

The three eldest children of Samuel M. and Florella (Chandler) Anderson were born in Indiana, the fourth at New Buffalo, Mich., the fifth at Spring Valley, Minn., the sixth at that place or elsewhere in that state, and the youngest, as has been said, was born at Emporia, Kan.

The sons and sons-in-law were farmers and lead miners, near Thurman, Newton County, Mo., except the youngest one who was in railroad employ and in 1889 lived at Hastings, Mich.

EDWARD RICHMOND CHANDLER, son of Joseph and Nancy (Phillips) Chandler, was born at Sempronius, N. Y., Sept. 2, 1829. His parents removed to Greenfield, O., in 1833, and he obtained his education in the schools of this place. He removed to Michigan in 1851, and about two years later, after his marriage, he lived on eighty acres owned by his wife at Yankee Springs, Barry County. He was exceptionally well informed for a laboring man, and he was township clerk for several years. He enlisted in the Thirteenth Regiment, Michigan Infantry, in 1862, but was discharged on account of his health before the end of 1863. Having recovered again, he enlisted on the last call for soldiers, and completed his term of service of one year. He then removed to Middleville in the same county, and was engaged in railroad service until he was killed by a locomotive, his foot having become caught in a frog. He died at Holland, Mich., Apr. 17, 1881.

He married at Cedar Creek, Mich., Feb. 19, 1853, Elvira J. Moulton,

b. Sept. 4, 1835. After his death she married Asahel A. Tewksbury of Middleville.

The children of Edward R. and Elvira J. (Moulton) Chandler all were born at Yankee Springs.

JOHN LINCOLN CHANDLER,

son of Samuel and Lydia (Muzzey) Chandler, was born at Lexington, Oct. 6. 1820. The first business of his manhood was scythe-manufacturing, at Fitchburg. Afterward he was engaged for a year or two in the business of house-furnishing at Ogdensburg, N. Y., but this enterprise ended by his being burned out. In 1853 he removed to St. Louis, Mo., where he was an upholsterer until 1859. He then removed to Dent County, Mo., and engaged in farming, but the outbreak of the Rebellion two years later forbade his remaining there in safety, and in April, 1861, he organized a company of loyal "Home Guards" which under his command was quite conspicuous in many skirmishes; until surprised in camp by a guerilla band in the following August and dispersed after a severe fight causing heavy loss to both parties. Capt. Chandler was severely wounded in the arm. his recovery he was commissioned First Lieutenant, and joined the Seventh Regiment of Missouri Cavalry as Adjutant. In September, 1862, this regiment became a part of the Army of the Frontier under the command of Major General Schofield, and had a part in the severe contests of the ensuing winter. For conspicuous gallantry at the battle of Prairie Grove, Ark., Lieut. Chandler was made Lieutenant Colonel of the regiment, and he thence forward commanded it, taking part the next spring in the expedition against Little Rock and the capture of that position in September, 1863. The Department of Arkansas was now formed under the command of Major General Steele, and Col. Chandler was made Provost Marshal General of the Department, in which position he rendered efficient service until his resignation in December, 1864.

In private life again, he returned to mercantile pursuits, and engaged in the business of Wholesale Grocer and Cotton Factor at Memphis, Tenn. In 1875 he became Collector of Privileges for the city of Memphis, and for a time was Editor-in-chief of the Memphis Post, then the only Republican newspaper in that section.

During the last years of his life he resided at Dallas, Texas, where he died Feb. 28, 1880. "He was a man of marked energy of character, kindly in his disposition, steadfast in his friendships, of rare intellectual culture, and highly respected."

He married at Fitchburg, Sept. 8, 1848, Abby Marshall Kimball, daughter of Porter Kimball, b. Mt. Vernon, N. H., Feb. 26, 1823, d. Ash son of James and Nancy (White) Chandler, was born at Lowell, July 29, 1825. He was brought by his parents to New Ipswich, N. H., while young, and lived upon the paternal farm until he was eighteen years of age, when he went to Lowell and learned the machinist's trade, which became the occupation of his life, when his health did not forbid exclusive attention to it, as was the case for four years after he reached the age of thirty during which he occupied the home farm; and another later period of about fifteen years spent upon another New Ipswich farm near "Kidder Mt.,". But during both these periods of nominal farming he paid much attention to his favorite occupation, and on the last-mentioned farm he had a well furnished shop in which he and his sons were largely occupied. He followed his trade successively in Lowell, New Ipswich, Dublin, N. H., Winchendon, Greenville, N. H., and Ayer at which last place he was proprietor of a large shop.

GEORGE WILLARD CHANDLER,

His later years after 1890 were spent as a general mechanic at Manhattan Kansas, where he died.

His mechanical ability in many directions was exceptional, and he devised a considerable number of useful inventions, including the first practicable twine-binding reaper; but most of the resulting compensations were secured by others.

He married, first, at Jaffrey, N. H., June 15, 1847, Martha Towne, daughter of John Towne, b. Jaffrey, Nov. 29, 1821, d. New Ipswich, May 21, 1848; second, at Roxbury, N. 222 son of James and Nancy (White) Chandler, was born at Iowell, Dec. 15, 1831. While an infant he was brought to New Ipswich, N. H., and was on the paternal farm until at the age of eighteen he went to Lawrence to learn the machinist's trade, a purpose which was interrupted by ill-health, further attendance at school, and a little teaching in the public schools, but was continued at Lowell and at Harrisville, N. H., where he became a journeyman. When he was twenty-three years old he accepted work at Winchendon, and made that his home almost his entire life, following the trade of machinist until in the last dozen years failing eyesight compelled its entire relinquishment.

He was an honored citizen of Winchendon, holding the office of Selectman, being a Trustee of the Savings Bank in that town for twenty-seven years, and a Deason in the Congregational Church for more than thirty years.

He married at Bellows Falls, Vt., Sept. 7, 1854, Elizabeth Sterne Campbell, daughter of Clark B. and Harriet (Meade) Campbell, b. Putney, Vt., Oct. 10, 1834; d. Aug. 24, 1910.

He died at the home of his granddaughter at New Rochelle, N. Y., Jan. 19, 1912.

son of James and Nancy (White) Chandler, was born at New Iphwich, Oct. 25, 1840. He prepared for college at New Ipswich Appleton Academy, in which he was teacher of mathematics before entering college, there giving instruction in such mathematical studies as usually extend through the sophomore year at college. He was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1868 as Valedictorian of his class. He taught successively in Kimball Union Academy, Meriden, N. H., and in St. Johnsbury (Vt.,) Academy. In 1871 he was called to the Professorship of Chemistry and Physics in Antioch College at Yellow Springs, Ohio, where he remained ten years, the Chemistry being exchanged for Mathematics in 1877. In 1881 he removed to Ripon, Wis., where he was at first in charge of the Department of Natural Sciences in Ripon College, but in a few years arranged transfer to his favorite department of Mathmetics. He was a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, a member of the American Mathematical Society, and a member (vice-president several years) of the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences, Arts, and Letters. He was connected with the Congregational Church, of which he was a Deacon, and was Sunday School Superintendent for seventeen years.

In 1906 he retired from the Ripon College faculty. His older sister Nancy Chandler of New Ipswich, N. H., a few weeks later was totally disabled by a fall downstairs, and he removed east to ensure that she should have all possible care, and thus (until her death which was surprisingly deferred until Nov. 1911) was usually with her at the paternal residence in Smithville, New Ipswich, N. H. Meanwhile the local Historical Society of New Ipswich persuaded him into the occupation enjoyed by him of preparing a complete History of New Ipswich, which—as almost completely written in final form by him—had its last additions made by others and went through the press in 1914; it is a printed volume of about eight hundred pages, the last three-fourths of which is genealogy, including so far as obtainable the list and brief biographies and ancestors of every family that had two generations of voters in New Ipswich. considerable part (sixteen pages of fine type) therein describes the New Ipswich Branch of the Descendants of Roger Chandler and their ancestors, as here given in this compilation; because he already had that part nearly completed himself.

He died unexpectedly, by an instantaneous heart failure, at Leominster, March 29, 1912.

Charles Henry Chandler married at Fitchburg, Aug. 17, 1868, Eliza Francena Dwinnell, (see footnote), daughter of Hiram and Charlotte Adelia (Willard) Dwinnell, b. Ashburnham, Jan. 15, 1844, d. Ripon, Wis., Oct. 28, 1894.

The children of Charles H. and Eliza F. (Dwinnell) Chandler, born in Yellow Springs, Ohio, are:—

- Elwyn Francis, b. Aug. 29, 1872; m. Fond du Lac, Wis., Sept. 7, 1900, Anna Levina McCumber, daughter of John and Jane (Brown) McCumber, b. Chinguacoushy, Ont., May 16, 1865, d. Grand Forks, N. Dak., July 26, 1944. He graduated from Ripon College, 1894, and was graduate student and teaching fellow at University of Wisconsin, 1897-99. From 1899 to 1945 he has been on the faculty of the University of North Dakota, at Grand Forks, N. D., as instructor, then professor, at first in mathematics, then in civil engineering, and from 1925 to 1932 was dean of its college of engineering. There have also come to him very many additional part-time responsibilities. From 1903 to 1933 hydraulic engineer for the U.S. Geological Survey, in charge of the maintenance of records of flow of the rivers of North Dakota and some surrounding territory; 1933-1935, state chief for U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey for certain types of their work; 1904-1905, the first State Engineer of North Dakota; City Engineer of Grand Forks one year; and very many other local, state, or federal engineering positions; and also through the latest thirty years, continuous duties as director or officer of various local large business organizations and banks. Thus, with his many years residence so long for a new western state, he is sometimes rated as the leading engineer of the state. He died Aug. 20, 1946.
- 422. ii. Edith Beatrice, b. Feb. 26, 1881. She was graduated from Ripon College in 1904, studied two years at University of Chicago and in Paris and Berlin, and taught in various central and western schools and colleges (usually foreign languages,) until June 19, 1921, at Provo, Utah, she married Lewis Dearcy Rollow, (son of Charles and Marilla Rollow,) b. Oct. 26, 1868, d. Provo, Nov. 8, 1937. He owned a photograph studio at Provo, which business she continued after his death. They had one son, Clarence Lewis, b. Feb. 19, 1926. He was in the U. S. Navy 1944-46.
